Russia Vetoes U.S. Proposal On Germ Warfare Charges

Soviets Vote Down Any Impartial Probe —Gross Declares Lie Proved

United Nations, July 3 (AP)—Soviet Russia today vetoed an American proposal for an impartial inquiry into Communist germ warfare charges.

The Security Council vote was 10-1 for an investigation in Red China and North Korea by the International Red Cross.

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik had warned in advance that he would veto the U. S. proposal because the council refused to invite the Chinese and Korean Communists to take part in the debate.

U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross said Malik's action in killing the inquiry definitely proved the falsity of the Communist charges.

49th Veto by Russia

It was the 49th veto cast by Russia since the council first met in 1946.

Immediately after the vote, Gross submitted a resolution calling on the council to declare the germ charges false and to condemn "the practice of disseminating such false charges."

The resolution noted that the Chinese Communists, North Koreans and Russians had previously rejected offers of the Red Cross to look into the charges. It pointed out that despite the American denials, the Communists had persisted in spreading the charges.

The resolution declared that the Soviet campaign was "designed to undermine the efforts of the United Nations to combat aggression in Korea."

Shows 'True Purpose'

Gross said: "Soviet Russia, by its action today, has revealed the true purpose of its campaign of hate."

He did not ask for a vote today on his new proposal, saying Russia should have a few days to study it.

"If the Soviet Union is not prepared to abandon its position," he said, "I request the council to consider it (the resolution) at the next meeting.

Three Priests Are Freed in Germany

Chicagoans Were Captives of Russians; Seized by Sentries

Berlin, July 3 (AP)—The Russians late today released three Chicago priests held 30 hours in captivity after they had been seized by sentries on the Berlin-Soviet zone frontier.

The Soviets handed the Catholic churchmen over to American officers in Karlshorst, East Berlin.

Priests Identified

The National Catholic Welfare Conference in Frankfurt identified the priests as Martin Borowczyk, George Gorski and Bronislaus Sokolowski, all American-born Chicagoans of Polish descent.

Their guide and driver was Mrs. Katherine Wintzler, a Berlin employe of the Catholic Welfare Conference and the mother of two children.

The Russians today had not yet acknowledged holding the quartet, although their arrest was observed by West Berliners.

Eyewitnesses reported the incident to the police, who advised American authorities.

J. J. Norris, European director of the welfare conference, said that the three priests came to West Germany a few days ago as tourists and went to Berlin on a brief sightseeing trip.

The car in which they were touring the city bore an American license plate. It was confiscated by the Communists.

For Mine Safety

Washington, July 3 (AP)—A bill giving the government new powers to padlock highly dangerous mines goes to the White House today for signature or veto. The House whipped it through yesterday by a 185 to 37 standing vote and the Senate approved the House amendments by a voice vote a few hours later, without a fight. Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.) called it "a real step forward in the field of mine safety," but contended that "it does not fully meet this vital problem." He added in a statement that a tougher law will be sought next year.

Three-Day Holiday

Albany, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—All employes in State Departments will get a three-day Fourth of July holiday. J. Edward Conway, chairman of the State Civil Service Commission, told department heads yesterday that not even skeleton staffs would be required on Saturday.

But Judge, Is It?

Oneonta Boys and Mother Must Explain This Odds Part Job

Oneonta, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—The Silvernail boys, Fred and Neal, could not convince their father that the gadget they built with a washing machine motor and odd parts was an automobile.

Just a toy, dad would say as the one-cylinder, one and one-half horsepower machine chugged along as fast as 10 miles an hour.

Yesterday, police spotted the vehicle with Neal, 13, driving and Fred, 15, beside him. They handed the boys' mother, Mrs. Leland Silvernail, a summons to appear in city court Tuesday.

The charge: Allowing an unlicensed minor to operate a motor vehicle.

Truman on Ballot May Be Possibility In Missouri Voting

Deal for U. S. Senate Is Denied, but 'Brass' Feels He Will Be Candidate

Kansas City, Mo., July 3 (AP)—The possibility that President Truman may be on the Democratic ballot in November appeared to be increasing today.

In this case, however, the evidence indicated that Truman would be listed as a candidate for the United States Senate—not for reelection as president.

Truman has said that he will not run for senator from Missouri this year or for any other political office. At his April 3 news conference, he told questioners he would not seek office— including that of senator—nor would he accept any move to draft him.

Believes It Improper

Two weeks later the President told reporters he would love to be a senator again but that he believes it improper for a President to use his job to get himself elected to another office.

That is why, he said, he refuses to run for office from Missouri.

But influential Missouri office holders believe it is entirely possible that Truman's name may be substituted for that of J. E. "Buck" Taylor, attorney general of Missouri on the November ticket for the Senate if Taylor wins the nomination.

Although Taylor's friends deny any such deal, critics of the president say they expect such an exchange to be arranged if the Democratic presidential nominee at Chicago is satisfactory to Truman.

Truman is believed to favor Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois for the presidential nomination.

One of Most Reluctant

Stevenson is regarded as one of the most reluctant of the potential candidates for the Democratic nomination. He has said he could not accept any nomination other than that for re-election as governor of Illinois.

However, he has not closed the door against a draft movement, which might develop at the Democratic convention opening in Chicago July 21.

Truman has made no secret of the fact that he would like to return to the Senate.

Taylor, who has been endorsed by most of the Democratic leaders, is understood to have the support of Truman.

Stuart Symington, who has held several responsible jobs in the Truman administration, is running for the senatorial nomination. And the indications are that Truman does not support the Symington bid.

If Symington wins the nomination, it is not considered likely he would step aside for Truman.

Watches Prisoner Transfer

Pusan, Korea, July 3 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, and President Syngman Rhee today flew to Cheju Island off the South Korean coast to watch the transfer of Communist war prisoners from Koje Island. Government sources said Rhee accompanied Van Fleet instead of flying to Seoul to decorate Korean war veterans. An official spokesman said earlier Rhee had gone to Seoul. Van Fleet arrived Wednesday and told newsmen he was gravely concerned over the effect of South Korea's political crisis on the war.

Zipper Man Guilty

Albany, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Morris A. Staff, a Bronx zipper merchant, will be sentenced Tuesday for evading payment of $275,582 in income taxes in 1944 and 1945. A federal court jury of six men and six women returned a verdict of guilty yesterday to Judge Stephen W. Brennan after deliberating almost four hours. Staff, 60, was indicted in April, 1951. The trial began June 5. The government said he had engaged in business under names other than his own and had failed to record transactions.

Holiday Caution

Albany, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—"Concentrate on caution." The State Motor Vehicle Bureau made this suggestion yesterday to motorists in New York state anticipating the three-day Fourth of July holiday.

Offices and departments at the city hall will be closed both Friday and Saturday, it was announced today.

UN Stopped Russia, Is HST Report

Says U. S. Cannot Win Peace Alone, Nor With Force Alone as Medium

Blames Russians

Dimmed Peace Hopes Are Fault of Soviets, He Says

Washington, July 3 (AP)—President Truman told Congress today the United Nations made it possible to stop Russia. He said American "go it alone" advocates would invite World War 3.

The Kremlin policy of conquest might have been irresistible, he said, "if it had not been clearly and decisively brought to the bar of world opinion in the UN."

"We can win peace, but we cannot win it alone," the President said. "And above all, we cannot win it by force alone. We can win the peace only by continuing to work for international justice and morality through the United Nations."

Submitting an annual report which detailed United States relations with the international organization, Truman said in an accompanying letter that although these relations have been carried on mostly on a non-partisan basis, there have been partisan attacks.

Spirit of Impatience

"Some of these attacks are made in a spirit of impatience that can only lead to the holocaust of world-wide war," Truman said. "Most of those who urged us to 'go it alone' are blind to the fact that such a course would destroy the solid progress toward peace which the United Nations has made in the past seven years. I am confident that the American people will reject these voices of despair."

He did not identify any of the "go it alone" advocates. Gen. Douglas MacArthur used the phrase in his address to Congress last year after Truman relieved him as Far East commander.

The President's letter of transmittal bristled with blame of Russia for dimming post-war hopes of peace.

"The Soviet leaders have been dominated by their doctrines of communism, by the concept of the use of force, unchecked by ethical considerations," he said. "This concept has led the Kremlin into a course of international conduct which threatens the peace of the world. By stirring up class warfare, subverting free governments, and employing lies, intimidations, and conquest, the Soviet Union has pursued a policy of extending its control without regard to the sovereignty of other nations or respect for their rights.

"This policy might have been irresistible if it had not been clearly and decisively brought to the bar of world opinion in the United Nations. * * *

Death Forecast By Council Is 430

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Americans will take to the highways 90 million strong over the Fourth of July weekend—and at least 430 of them will die in accidents, the National Safety Council estimates.

The council said some 40 million passenger vehicles will clog the nation's streets and highways during the three-day weekend.

These vehicles will travel five billion miles, or enough to circle the world 200,000 times, the council added.

"More cars on the road traveling more miles will inevitably mean more accidents—unless there is more caution than usual on the part of the motoring public," the council said.

Allies Are Pounded By Red Artillery In Western Korea

UN Planes Pierce Cloud Overcast to Bomb Supply Lines of Enemy

Seoul, Korea, July 3 (AP)—Communist artillery poured shell after shell into allied defenses atop Old Baldy and T-Bone Hills in western Korea today as patrols traded shots elsewhere along the mist-shrouded battlefront.

Allied warplanes, virtually grounded for five days, poked their noses through holes in the overcast to pound Communist supply lines behind the front.

Two Communist probing parties knocked allied troops off outpost hills northwest of Yonchon on the western front shortly before midnight. But an artillery barrage drove the Reds back to their own lines and UN forces met no opposition in retaking the hills before dawn, the Eighth Army said.

Allied soldiers who wrested Old Baldy and T-Bone Hills from the Communists in savage fighting two weeks ago were the target of big Red guns zeroed in on the peaks, the army said.

Up to 6 p. m. Wednesday 3,783 rounds of Red mortar and artillery shells were counted along the

Communists Hold Back on Plane Use

Tokyo, July 3 (AP)—The Communists no longer throw hundreds of swift MIG-15 jets into the North Korean skies and apparently are hoarding their air armada of 1,800 to 1,900 planes, the Far East Air Forces said today.

"Until recent weeks, the F-86s (U. S. Sabre jets) were outnumbered as much as three to one in air battles over northwest Korea," a FEAF statement noted.

But in six days of air fighting last month, the air force said, American Sabres outnumbered the MIGs most of the time.

"This numerical advantage in air combat has changed in favor of Fifth Air Force Sabre jets at a time when the Communists are known to have between 1,800 and 1,900 planes of all types at Manchurian bases and between 800 and 900 MIGs," the air force said.

Stalin's Secret Army—3

(In two articles this week, William L. Ryan has told the background of the Soviet espionage system, and sketched the machine set up by Stalin's secret army to steal the west's defense secrets. Today he puts the focus on its lure—how it gets recruits here and why they forsake their native loyalties to serve the Kremlin.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(AP Foreign News Analyst)

What accounts for the startling success of the Stalinist fifth column? How are its recruits, often highly intelligent and educated persons, persuaded to join an underground conspiracy against their own countries?

It is a long, careful process.

The recruitment of the fifth column often requires money, and Moscow is willing to spend it without stint for the purpose, but money is secondary. Few of the cases of convicted Communist spies involved the payment of any large amounts of money.

One of the most important methods of recruiting for Stalin's secret army is the Communist cell.

Communists scout carefully for their prospects—persons whose environments, backgrounds, way of thinking, prejudices, misconceptions or ideals indicate the possibility of persuasion.

Those persons are not invited into the Communist Party itself. They are often not reliable enough. Moreover they are more valuable outside the party. These persons instead become subjects for what the Communists call "development."

Prospects are lured by one means or another into "study groups" or "discussion groups," which in reality are operated by cells of the Communist Party.

The recruiting agents concentrate their attention on such persons as scientific workers, teachers, students and persons engaged in intellectual pursuits—in particular likely prospects who either work for the government or have a chance of doing so. Wherever

Taft Is Said to Be Flabbergasted by Governors' Stand

Motorists Asked To Use Caution as Theme for Holiday

Police, Sheriff and Safety Council Pleas Made on Eve of Big Weekend

With a record throng of motor travelers forecast over the three-day July 4 weekend, Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren of the local police department and Sheriff Cluett Schantz today urged all motorists to drive at a safe speed and obey all traffic laws in order to keep the casualty rate from rising.

"Highways are always crowded on Independence Day," Chief Van Buren and Sheriff Schantz said, "but this year, with a three-day holiday for many, traffic will be greatly multiplied."

Urging motorists to curb their holiday spirit and drive carefully, the local police chief suggested that all who plan to take to the roads during the holiday weekend make sure their vehicles were in tip-top mechanical condition.

Safety Council Plea

Meanwhile, another sound plea for safe driving during the long weekend ahead was made by Richard M. Kalish, president of the Ulster County Safety Council.

Kalish urged all to make the holiday drive a safety drive this weekend by obeying these "common sense" rules:

Be sure that your car is in good mechanical condition, brakes should be tested, good tires are important because long trips at highway speed mean added strain. Test them daily, Kalish urged.

The local Safety Council president listed the following to help make the July 4 holiday weekend a safe and sane weekend:

1.—Start trips in plenty of time so you don't have to hurry.

2.—Keep speed down, slow up here and show up there.

3.—Pass other cars only if there is plenty of room.

4.—Stay far behind other cars so that you can stop in an emergency.

5.—Don't drive after drinking, even a little.

6.—Stop and rest whenever over-tired or sleepy.

7.—Keep your temper and be courteous and patient in heavy traffic. Remember that good manners make driving more pleasant and safer. So sign a mental non-aggression pact with other drivers and keep a plentiful supply of courtesy on hand to make up for any lack of courtesy on the other fellow's part.

In another grim reminder for motorists to "take it easy this weekend," Kalish pointed out that the five holidays of Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Christmas and New Year's have claimed 8,936 lives since 1947. "This figure is equal to half of the number of Americans who have lost their lives in the Korean war which began about two years ago," Kalish added.

Pose as Inspectors Loot Woman's Home

New York, July 3 (AP)—Police searched today for two men posing as building inspectors who looted a woman's four-story private home of $20,000 in jewelry and $520 in cash while threatening her with a knife and gun.

The robbery took place yesterday at the West Side (311 West 105th street) home of Miss Edith Maxwell, 53.

Miss Maxwell said one of the robbers was a knife-wielding fat man while the gunman was a husky six-footer.

The woman said the fat man appeared at her door and told her, "I'm an inspector. I want to look at your cellar."

The men forced the woman to accompany them as they searched the house from top to bottom. In a fourth floor closet, Miss Maxwell said, the men found the cash and jewelry, including family heirlooms.

Before the men left they tied a handkerchief over her mouth and she collapsed. An unidentified niece found Miss Maxwell in a dazed condition last night.

General's Aides Say 'Steamroller' Is Used—Dewey Reports

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's top campaign command disagreed sharply today with a statement from 23 Republican governors who took sides with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on a critical convention issue.

Two of them said they believe the governors were unaware of the implications of the manifesto.

The governors signed a statement at Houston, Texas, yesterday urging Republican National Convention managers to bar contested state delegations from voting on any other delegate disputes.

Tom Coleman, floor manager for Taft, snapped: "The governors ought to read up on parliamentary procedure."

And David Ingalls, campaign manager for the senator, commented to this reporter: "Either they didn't think it through, or else they just don't understand what this means. You couldn't have a convention under such a rule."

Ingalls added that he interpreted the statement as a sign "the Eisenhower people are licked."

Taft 'Dumbfounded'

Another of Taft's aides, who asked not to be identified, said Taft was "dumbfounded" when he hear the news.

One of the signers of the statement, Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah, is a Taft backer. Another, Gov. Earl Warren of California, is himself a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Taft's position has been that a disputed delegation should be permitted to vote on every contest except its own. That is, neither of the rival Texas delegations might have a voice in the Texas dispute—but the one temporarily seated might vote on contests involving opposing claims of delegations in other states.

Ingalls said that, otherwise, "there could be a phony claim

Eisenhower Asks Clean GOP Fight

Would Keep Party Fit to Lead Nation in Triumph

Denver, July 3 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he is going to the GOP national convention in Chicago to make a fight "to keep our party clean and fit to lead our nation."

In a farewell talk prepared for delivery off the rear platform of his special train, the general said:

"I'm going to Chicago—as a soldier in the ranks—to have a hand in that fight. . . . I'm going to say that our party cannot go before the public and ask for its votes unless it comes into court with clean hands."

With this farewell to Denver, the general headed toward Chicago after saying he will "roar out across the country" for a clean and decent operation of the convention.

To Have 'Open Door'

Eisenhower declared he will have an "open door" to delegates at his Blackstone Hotel headquarters and no appointments will be necessary for delegates to see him.

Eisenhower said the fight in Chicago was not only to name a Republican presidential nominee —but also a fight to keep the party fit to lead the nation. Then he added:

"And I'm going to say some things and raise some questions with every delegate I meet.

"I'm going to say that our party cannot go before the public and ask for votes unless it comes into court with clean hands.

"I'm going to ask every dele-

Eisenhower Camp Loses Hope of Win

General's Backers Attack Taft Tactics in Move to Get Some of Those Contested

Meets With Fine

Senator Refuses Any Definite Comment on Conference

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—A bitter fight between Taft and Eisenhower forces for 13 Louisiana delegates exploded today before the Republican National Committee.

With Senator Robert A. Taft's supporters solidly in control, the Eisenhower faction just about abandoned in advance any hope of getting a committee vote in favor of seating its delegates in next week's nominating convention.

But they opened a slashing attack, anyway, on Taft faction tactics in Texas, Georgia and other states in addition to Louisiana.

And they declared they would try again in the convention itself to get the challenged Taft delegates thrown out and the general's supporters seated in their place. They contend there'll be a marked swing in sentiment toward their candidate once rank-and-file delegations start streaming into Chicago.

Meets Governor

While the delegate scrap continued, Taft conferred with Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania. Fine, who controls a segment of Pennsylvania 70-man delegation and has not yet announced his favorite, spent 45 minutes in Taft's presidential suite in the Congress Hotel "discussing the whole field of issues."

Taft and Fine told newsmen "nothing concrete" came out of the meeting, however, and "the situation is just as it was."

They said they canvassed the delegate vote situation casually. Fine said he still was undecided where to throw his support.

An aide to Fine said the governor expected to see Gen. Eisenhower when Taft's chief opponent arrives Saturday.

The anger generated in two days of hearings in the convention headquarters hotel burst out at today's session even before the Louisiana dispute came up.

Schroeder Takes Exception

Werner W. Schroeder, national committeeman from Illinois, stood up and took scorching exception to a charge by Eisenhower's campaign manager, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., that the committee's award of Georgia's 17 delegates to Taft yesterday was a steal.

One of 62 Members

Schroeder was one of the 62 committee members who voted to seat the pro-Taft faction—the Eisenhower group mustered 39 votes—and he told the committee his vote yesterday was cast for the same group supported in three previous contests beginning in 1944.

With reference to the family connections of the Massachusetts senator, Schroeder quoted the well-known lines about:

"The land of the bean and the

Yugoslavia Is Constructing Double Line Facing Hungary's Border

Vienna, Austria, July 3 (AP)—Austrian border officials say Yugoslavia appears to be throwing up a massive double line of fortifications along her northern border to halt a possible attack from the Hungarian plains.

A report from Styria, in southern Austria said Austrian mountain lookouts can see the defense system of bunkers and gun emplacements going up along the Drava river.

The Drava is the only natural barrier between Yugoslavia and her hostile Moscow-dominated neighbor on the north. The region conceivably could be a gateway to Russian armies trying a sweep to the plains of Slovenia and on to Italy.

Taft's position has been that a disputed delegation should be permitted to vote on every contest except its own. That is, neither of the rival Texas delegations might have a voice in the Texas dispute—but the one temporarily seated might vote on contests involving opposing claims of delegations in other states.

Ingalls said that, otherwise, "there could be a phony claim

Eisenhower Asks Clean GOP Fight

Would Keep Party Fit to Lead Nation in Triumph

Denver, July 3 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he is going to the GOP national convention in Chicago to make a fight "to keep our party clean and fit to lead our nation."

In a farewell talk prepared for delivery off the rear platform of his special train, the general said:

"I'm going to Chicago—as a soldier in the ranks—to have a hand in that fight. . . . I'm going to say that our party cannot go before the public and ask for its votes unless it comes into court with clean hands."

With this farewell to Denver, the general headed toward Chicago after saying he will "roar out across the country" for a clean and decent operation of the convention.

To Have 'Open Door'

Eisenhower declared he will have an "open door" to delegates at his Blackstone Hotel headquarters and no appointments will be necessary for delegates to see him.

Eisenhower said the fight in Chicago was not only to name a Republican presidential nominee—but also a fight to keep the party fit to lead the nation. Then he added:

"And I'm going to say some things and raise some questions with every delegate I meet.

"I'm going to say that our party cannot go before the public and ask for votes unless it comes into court with clean hands.

"I'm going to ask every dele-

Eisenhower Camp Loses Hope of Win

General's Backers Attack Taft Tactics in Move to Get Some of Those Contested

Meets With Fine

Senator Refuses Any Definite Comment on Conference

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—A bitter fight between Taft and Eisenhower forces for 13 Louisiana delegates exploded today before the Republican National Committee.

With Senator Robert A. Taft's supporters solidly in control, the Eisenhower faction just about abandoned in advance any hope of getting a committee vote in favor of seating its delegates in next week's nominating convention.

But they opened a slashing attack, anyway, on Taft faction tactics in Texas, Georgia and other states in addition to Louisiana.

And they declared they would try again in the convention itself to get the challenged Taft delegates thrown out and the general's supporters seated in their place. They contend there'll be a marked swing in sentiment toward their candidate once rank-and-file delegations start streaming into Chicago.

Meets Governor

While the delegate scrap continued, Taft conferred with Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania. Fine, who controls a segment of Pennsylvania 70-man delegation and has not yet announced his favorite, spent 45 minutes in Taft's presidential suite in the Congress Hotel "discussing the whole field of issues."

Taft and Fine told newsmen "nothing concrete" came out of the meeting, however, and "the situation is just as it was."

They said they canvassed the delegate vote situation casually. Fine said he still was undecided where to throw his support.

An aide to Fine said the governor expected to see Gen. Eisenhower when Taft's chief opponent arrives Saturday.

The anger generated in two days of hearings in the convention headquarters hotel burst out at today's session even before the Louisiana dispute came up.

Schroeder Takes Exception

Werner W. Schroeder, national committeeman from Illinois, stood up and took scorching exception to a charge by Eisenhower's campaign manager, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., that the committee's award of Georgia's 17 delegates to Taft yesterday was a steal.

One of 62 Members

Schroeder was one of the 62 committee members who voted to seat the pro-Taft faction—the Eisenhower group mustered 39 votes—and he told the committee his vote yesterday was cast for the same group supported in three previous contests beginning in 1944.

With reference to the family connections of the Massachusetts senator, Schroeder quoted the well-known lines about:

"The land of the bean and the

Russia Vetoes U.S. Proposal On Germ Warfare Charges

Soviets Vote Down Any Impartial Probe —Gross Declares Lie Proved

United Nations, July 3 (AP)—Soviet Russia today vetoed an American proposal for an impartial inquiry into Communist germ warfare charges.

The Security Council vote was 10-1 for an investigation in Red China and North Korea by the International Red Cross.

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik had warned in advance that he would veto the U. S. proposal because the council refused to invite the Chinese and Korean Communists to take part in the debate.

U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross said Malik's action in killing the inquiry definitely proved the falsity of the Communist charges.

49th Veto by Russia

It was the 49th veto cast by Russia since the council first met in 1946.

Immediately after the vote, Gross submitted a resolution calling on the council to declare the germ charges false and to condemn "the practice of disseminating such false charges."

The resolution noted that the Chinese Communists, North Koreans and Russians had previously rejected offers of the Red Cross to look into the charges. It pointed out that despite the American denials, the Communists had persisted in spreading the charges.

The resolution declared that the Soviet campaign was "designed to undermine the efforts of the United Nations to combat aggression in Korea."

Shows 'True Purpose'

Gross said: "Soviet Russia, by its action today, has revealed the true purpose of its campaign of hate."

He did not ask for a vote today on his new proposal, saying Russia should have a few days to study it.

"If the Soviet Union is not prepared to abandon its position," he said, "I request the council to consider it (the resolution) at the next meeting.

Three Priests Are Freed in Germany

Chicagoans Were Captives of Russians; Seized by Sentries

Berlin, July 3 (AP)—The Russians late today released three Chicago priests held 30 hours in captivity after they had been seized by sentries on the Berlin-Soviet zone frontier.

The Soviets handed the Catholic churchmen over to American officers in Karlshorst, East Berlin.

Priests Identified

The National Catholic Welfare Conference in Frankfurt identified the priests as Martin Borowczyk, George Gorski and Bronislaus Sokolowski, all American-born Chicagoans of Polish descent.

Their guide and driver was Mrs. Katherine Wintzler, a Berlin employe of the Catholic Welfare Conference and the mother of two children.

The Russians today had not yet acknowledged holding the quartet, although their arrest was observed by West Berliners.

Eyewitnesses reported the incident to the police, who advised American authorities.

J. J. Norris, European director of the welfare conference, said that the three priests came to West Germany a few days ago as tourists and went to Berlin on a brief sightseeing trip.

The car in which they were touring the city bore an American license plate. It was confiscated by the Communists.

For Mine Safety

Washington, July 3 (AP)—A bill giving the government new powers to padlock highly dangerous mines goes to the White House today for signature or veto. The House whipped it through yesterday by a 185 to 37 standing vote and the Senate approved the House amendments by a voice vote a few hours later, without a fight. Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.) called it "a real step forward in the field of mine safety," but contended that "it does not fully meet this vital problem." He added in a statement that a tougher law will be sought next year.

Three-Day Holiday

Albany, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—All employes in State Departments will get a three-day Fourth of July holiday. J. Edward Conway, chairman of the State Civil Service Commission, told department heads yesterday that not even skeleton staffs would be required on Saturday.

But Judge, Is It?

Oneonta Boys and Mother Must Explain This Odds Part Job

Oneonta, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—The Silvernail boys, Fred and Neal, could not convince their father that the gadget they built with a washing machine motor and odd parts was an automobile.

Just a toy, dad would say as the one-cylinder, one and one-half horsepower machine chugged along as fast as 10 miles an hour.

Yesterday, police spotted the vehicle with Neal, 13, driving and Fred, 15, beside him. They handed the boys' mother, Mrs. Leland Silvernail, a summons to appear in city court Tuesday.

The charge: Allowing an unlicensed minor to operate a motor vehicle.

Truman on Ballot May Be Possibility In Missouri Voting

Deal for U. S. Senate Is Denied, but 'Brass' Feels He Will Be Candidate

Kansas City, Mo., July 3 (AP)—The possibility that President Truman may be on the Democratic ballot in November appeared to be increasing today.

In this case, however, the evidence indicated that Truman would be listed as a candidate for the United States Senate—not for reelection as president.

Truman has said that he will not run for senator from Missouri this year or for any other political office. At his April 3 news conference, he told questioners he would not seek office— including that of senator—nor would he accept any move to draft him.

Believes It Improper

Two weeks later the President told reporters he would love to be a senator again but that he believes it improper for a President to use his job to get himself elected to another office.

That is why, he said, he refuses to run for office from Missouri.

But influential Missouri office holders believe it is entirely possible that Truman's name may be substituted for that of J. E. "Buck" Taylor, attorney general of Missouri on the November ticket for the Senate if Taylor wins the nomination.

Although Taylor's friends deny any such deal, critics of the president say they expect such an exchange to be arranged if the Democratic presidential nominee at Chicago is satisfactory to Truman.

Truman is believed to favor Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois for the presidential nomination.

One of Most Reluctant

Stevenson is regarded as one of the most reluctant of the potential candidates for the Democratic nomination. He has said he could not accept any nomination other than that for re-election as governor of Illinois.

However, he has not closed the door against a draft movement, which might develop at the Democratic convention opening in Chicago July 21.

Truman has made no secret of the fact that he would like to return to the Senate.

Taylor, who has been endorsed by most of the Democratic leaders, is understood to have the support of Truman.

Stuart Symington, who has held several responsible jobs in the Truman administration, is running for the senatorial nomination. And the indications are that Truman does not support the Symington bid.

If Symington wins the nomination, it is not considered likely he would step aside for Truman.

Watches Prisoner Transfer

Pusan, Korea, July 3 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, and President Syngman Rhee today flew to Cheju Island off the South Korean coast to watch the transfer of Communist war prisoners from Koje Island. Government sources said Rhee accompanied Van Fleet instead of flying to Seoul to decorate Korean war veterans. An official spokesman said earlier Rhee had gone to Seoul. Van Fleet arrived Wednesday and told newsmen he was gravely concerned over the effect of South Korea's political crisis on the war.

Zipper Man Guilty

Albany, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Morris A. Staff, a Bronx zipper merchant, will be sentenced Tuesday for evading payment of $275,582 in income taxes in 1944 and 1945. A federal court jury of six men and six women returned a verdict of guilty yesterday to Judge Stephen W. Brennan after deliberating almost four hours. Staff, 60, was indicted in April, 1951. The trial began June 5. The government said he had engaged in business under names other than his own and had failed to record transactions.

Holiday Caution

Albany, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—"Concentrate on caution." The State Motor Vehicle Bureau made this suggestion yesterday to motorists in New York state anticipating the three-day Fourth of July holiday.

Boy Kills Mother

Milwaukee, July 3 (AP)—A 34-year-old housewife was killed last night by four shots from a rifle which police said her 13-year-old son admitted firing at her. The body of Mrs. Sylvia Habersteger, was found in the kitchen of her home, in the Town of Franklin. Deputy sheriffs said she had been shot in the back of the head. Police Sgt. Robert Engbring said her son, Herbert, told him that he "lost his head" last night after his mother scolded him, got the rifle and shot his mother. The rifle was a Christmas present.

Stalin's Secret Army—3

(In two articles this week, William L. Ryan has told the background of the Soviet espionage system, and sketched the machine set up by Stalin's secret army to steal the west's defense secrets. Today he puts the focus on its lure—how it gets recruits here and why they forsake their native loyalties to serve the Kremlin.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(AP Foreign News Analyst)

What accounts for the startling success of the Stalinist fifth column? How are its recruits, often highly intelligent and educated persons, persuaded to join an underground conspiracy against their own countries?

It is a long, careful process.

The recruitment of the fifth column often requires money, and Moscow is willing to spend it without stint for the purpose, but money is secondary. Few of the cases of convicted Communist spies involved the payment of any large amounts of money.

One of the most important methods of recruiting for Stalin's secret army is the Communist cell.

Communists scout carefully for their prospects—persons whose environments, backgrounds, way of thinking, prejudices, misconceptions or ideals indicate the possibility of persuasion.

Those persons are not invited into the Communist Party itself. They are often not reliable enough. Moreover they are more valuable outside the party. These persons instead become subjects for what the Communists call "development."

Prospects are lured by one means or another into "study groups" or "discussion groups," which in reality are operated by cells of the Communist Party.

The recruiting agents concentrate their attention on such persons as scientific workers, teachers, students and persons engaged in intellectual pursuits—in particular likely prospects who either work for the government or have a chance of doing so. Wherever

Pose as Inspectors Loot Woman's Home

New York, July 3 (AP)—Police searched today for two men posing as building inspectors who looted a woman's four-story private home of $20,000 in jewelry and $520 in cash while threatening her with a knife and gun.

The robbery took place yesterday at the West Side (311 West 105th street) home of Miss Edith Maxwell, 53.

Miss Maxwell said one of the robbers was a knife-wielding fat man while the gunman was a husky six-footer.

The woman said the fat man appeared at her door and told her, "I'm an inspector. I want to look at your cellar."

The men forced the woman to accompany them as they searched the house from top to bottom. In a fourth floor closet, Miss Maxwell said, the men found the cash and jewelry, including family heirlooms.

Before the men left they tied a handkerchief over her mouth and she collapsed. An unidentified niece found Miss Maxwell in a dazed condition last night.

Forts Are Built

Yugoslavia Is Constructing Double Line Facing Hungary's Border

Vienna, Austria, July 3 (AP)—Austrian border officials say Yugoslavia appears to be throwing up a massive double line of fortifications along her northern border to halt a possible attack from the Hungarian plains.

A report from Styria, in southern Austria said Austrian mountain lookouts can see the defense system of bunkers and gun emplacements going up along the Drava river.

The Drava is the only natural barrier between Yugoslavia and her hostile Moscow-dominated neighbor on the north. The region conceivably could be a gateway to Russian armies trying a sweep to the plains of Slovenia and on to Italy.

Plane Burns Off Its Paint in Test

Palmdale, Calif., July 3 (AP)—A United States combat plane with all-rocket armament has just zoomed through a special test flight at a speed so fast that the slipstream burned the paint off her nose. The new jet, a thin-wing development by Lockheed of its F-80 Shooting Star, is called the Starfire. She's an all-weather interceptor designed to shoot down invading bombers. She is an exceptionally high speed, two-place craft with radar eyes and an electronic brain that makes her just about completely automatic.

Tony LeVier, chief engineering test pilot for Lockheed, put her through her paces yesterday at the Palmdale Airport. Her take-off and climb demonstrated her ability to streak upward to the bomber invasion lanes at 45,000 feet and above, with a warmup of less than 30 seconds. Her speed is secret. Her landing speed is slowed by release of a 16-foot ribbon parachute brake.

General Praises Men

Tokyo, Friday, July 4 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, in an Independence Day statement, today praised the officers and men of his Eighth Army for their "courage, patience and success in the battle against * * * international communism."

Aboard were 1,660 gay passengers, including Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President. Already circulating through the vessel's 990-foot length was the scuttlebut that she'd race for the Atlantic crossing record this voyage. The United States' skipper, Commodore Harry Manning, was evasive on the subject.

Charges Are Rejected

A government announcement today said Iran in a reply to Russia declared the Soviet complaint was without "basis or foundation."

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 3 (AP)—In typical pre-holiday dullness, the stock market today sagged quietly.

Losses were fractional with the exception of a few special situations. At the same time a liberal number of plus signs dotted the list.

There was pressure on a few miracle drug manufacturers Parke Davis slid down between 3 and 4 points after opening off 2¼ at 46¼ on a block of 2,600 shares. American Cyanamid lost between 4 and 5 points but without marked activity.

Guantanamo Sugar dropped 2 at 10 on an opening block of 3,500 shares and continued trading at that level. Directors yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents as against $1.50 previously paid.

Spiegel lost fractions after directors decided to take no action on the common dividend at this time. Two 15-cent dividends were paid this year and a total of 90 cents was paid in 1951.

Plane Burns Off Its Paint in Test

Palmdale, Calif., July 3 (AP)—A United States combat plane with all-rocket armament has just zoomed through a special test flight at a speed so fast that the slipstream burned the paint off her nose. The new jet, a thin-wing development by Lockheed of its F-80 Shooting Star, is called the Starfire. She's an all-weather interceptor designed to shoot down invading bombers. She is an exceptionally high speed, two-place craft with radar eyes and an electronic brain that makes her just about completely automatic.

Tony LeVier, chief engineering test pilot for Lockheed, put her through her paces yesterday at the Palmdale Airport. Her take-off and climb demonstrated her ability to streak upward to the bomber invasion lanes at 45,000 feet and above, with a warmup of less than 30 seconds. Her speed is secret. Her landing speed is slowed by release of a 16-foot ribbon parachute brake.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 3 (AP)—In typical pre-holiday dullness, the stock market today sagged quietly.

Losses were fractional with the exception of a few special situations. At the same time a liberal number of plus signs dotted the list.

There was pressure on a few miracle drug manufacturers Parke Davis slid down between 3 and 4 points after opening off 2¼ at 46¼ on a block of 2,600 shares. American Cyanamid lost between 4 and 5 points but without marked activity.

Guantanamo Sugar dropped 2 at 10 on an opening block of 3,500 shares and continued trading at that level. Directors yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents as against $1.50 previously paid.

Spiegel lost fractions after directors decided to take no action on the common dividend at this time. Two 15-cent dividends were paid this year and a total of 90 cents was paid in 1951.

The circus will play on the upper level at the park at 2 p. m. and 7 p. m., under auspices of the volunteer fire company.

Dixie has a date at the city hall at 10:30 a. m. for a picture with Acting Mayor Joe Kelly, who will welcome the circus in the name of the city and Excelsior Hose.

President William B. Martin of the fire company said that all children's tickets still undistributed will be given out after the official welcome at the city hall.

Martin, one of the great believers in keeping the American circus heritage alive, proudly boasted today that Excelsior Hose will entertain 40 little folks from the Children's Home and 200 from Sacred Heart Orphanage, West Part, at the afternoon matinee.

Fair Trade Bill Goes to President

Washington, July 3 (AP)—A bill designed to strengthen state laws for the fixing of minimum retail prices on trade-marked and brand-name merchandise landed on President Truman's desk today.

The Senate last night passed, 64 to 16, the House-approved McGuire "fair trade" bill after two days of debate.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore.), an opponent, said he didn't know what the President would do, but guessed he would veto it. Critics of the measure, led by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), denounced it as contrary to the spirit of the anti-trust laws, and said it might add as much as two billion dollars to retail prices.

Supporters derided this cost estimate and said the legislation was needed to protect small retailers from "cut-throat competition," including "loss leaders" to lure customers into stores.

The bill has the effect of overriding a 1951 Supreme Court decision which weakened the state laws.

The court ruled that retailers who did not enter agreements were not obliged to observe the minimum prices. The decision set off price wars in some areas, notably in New York city's big department stores.

If the bill becomes law, "nonsigners" again will have to abide by minimum prices on "fair trade" items.

Four Are Sentenced

Berlin, July 3 (AP)—Four teenage East German youths have been sentenced to 25 years each in labor camps for stealing uranium, the U. S. high commission newspaper Neue Zeitung reported today. The paper said the boys, between 16 and 17, were miners in the Soviet-run uranium mines at Aue in East Germany. A Soviet tribunal convicted them of stealing uranium and sending it to American-occupied Bavaria and helping other youngsters escape from forced labor in the uranium mines.

Tennis Matches Delayed

Wimbledon, July 3 (AP)—Steady rain delayed the start of today's important semi-final matches in the Wimbledon tennis championships but officials still held out hope that play might be started. If the matches are postponed they probably will be consolidated with tomorrow's program.

Uproar in London

In London, there was an uproar in the House of Commons following reports that Lord Alexander, defense secretary, had told a private meeting details of his visit to Korea he thought too secret to tell Parliament.

Alexander told the Canada Club "I think if the Chinese attempt a full scale offensive they will penetrate the front to a depth of some miles in some places.

"I should be very much happier if General Van Fleet (U.S. Eighth Army commander) had a little more reserves in his own hands."

Prime Minister Churchill told angry Laborites that Alexander's statement had done no harm to the security of United Nations troops in the field.

Potsdam, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Clarkson College of Technology will raise its tuition from $275 to $300 a semester, beginning next September. Dr. William G. Van Note, president, also announced yesterday that a student activities fee of $12.50 would be charged in the fall.

Held for Shooting Man in Argument

Albert Charles Robinson, 22, of Beacon, was shot in the upper right thigh during an argument on a Highland area farm about 2 p. m. Wednesday, state police reported.

Accused by state police of firing a 12-gauge single-barreled shotgun at Robinson was James McNeil, 29-year-old farm worker of Highland. McNeil was arraigned before Justice of the Peace William J. Upright on a first degree assault charge. After waiving examination, McNeil was ordered held at the Ulster county jail for action of the grand jury.

Robinson was taken by ambulance to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie, where his condition was reported today as "satisfactory."

State police of Highland, who investigated, said the shooting followed an argument "over the affections of a young lady."

The shooting took place on the farm of Joseph Pape, near Highland, troopers reported.

Building Permits $5,441 Under May

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's building permit report for June showed an estimated total value of new construction and alterations $5,441 under the May total.

The chief issued 55 permits in June at an estimated total cost of $80,736. The May total was $86,177.

Four permits were issued for new dwellings at an estimated cost of $36,800.

Permits for non-residential construction included one for a greenhouse at $250, two for storage buildings at $5,900, six for private garages at $2,325, and one for a public garage at $7,500.

Of permits issued for alterations, additions and repairs, 25 were for residential structures at $16,426, and six for non-residential buildings at $7,390. Ten permits were issued for oil tanks and burners, and one gas tank at $4,145.

Truman's Last Report

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Amid recurring rumors he may yet run again, President Truman made it clear today he does not expect to be president next year. In a letter accompanying a report to Congress on the United Nations, the President said: "This will be my last report, as President, to the Congress on our participation in the United Nations." Truman has announced that he will not seek reelection.

istice, and they have demonstrated that the course of conquest is mortally dangerous."

Since the Korean attack two years ago, Truman said the free world has made progress which "has now begun to tip the scales toward real security for ourselves and all other peace-loving peoples."

Secretary of State Acheson in a foreward said the 362-page report is a record of "steady, cumulative progress through the UN toward the goal of a peaceful and secure world."

The document is devoted in large part to UN work in dealing with economic and social affairs, human rights, dependent territories and problems other than political and security affairs. Truman in his letter commented "we must remember that the challenge of international lawlessness is not only military but also political and economic."

Plan Given by Reds

Munsan, Korea, July 3 (AP)—Communist negotiators today offered a new plan for breaking the Korean truce talks deadlock, but an allied spokesman said the proposal contains a "lot of gimmicks and potential gimmicks." Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr. said the Red plan "may be an important one and it may not." The Reds indicated they would ease their demand for return of all military prisoners in United Nations stockades, provided the 20,000 Chinese captives are returned. They asked for secret sessions to discuss the proposal. Harrison, the senior allied negotiator, immediately called for adjournment until Friday (9 p. m., EST Thursday) to study it. He did not reply to the Communist demand for secret sessions.

Held for Car Theft

Walter Fitzgerald, 33, of Ellenville, was arrested last night at Danbury, Conn., by Sgt. Lemuel Howard and Officer Ernest Bartroff, of the local police on a charge of second degree grand larceny. He has charged with having taken a car owned by Herbert Pierson, of Ellenville, from the Main street parking lot Monday. Local police were notified yesterday that the car had been located there and Fitzgerald was held pending arrival of the local officers. The case was put over until Saturday when Fitzgerald appeared before Special City Judge Harry Gold to allow him time to obtain counsel. The defendant was returned to the county jail after arraignment.

Taft Is Said to Be filed in each of the 48 states, and nobody would be able to rule on any of the claims. You just couldn't have a convention."

Same Position Taken

The Eisenhower leaders have taken the same position that the governors endorsed yesterday. From Houston, the governors telegraphed their statement to Guy Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, which is now hearing the delegate disputes. The committee's decisions can be appealed to the convention—a step Eisenhower forces have promised to take whenever they lose in the committee.

The issue of the states' disputes is an important one, involving 85 delegate seats from seven states. Three state contests have already been decided by the national committee.

It voted to seat an 18-man Florida delegation, 14 of whom favor Taft. It unseated 14 Georgia delegates who favor Eisenhower, and ruled in favor of 17 Georgians who are solidly for Taft. And it decided in favor of one Eisenhower backer in a single contest in the Kansas delegation.

Eisenhower's campaign leaders are accusing the Taft-dominated national committee of "steamroller tacts." Campaign Manager Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, in fact, called the Georgia decision "another Texas steal."

Dewey Gives Statement

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who arrived in Chicago last night, said: "I've never seen so many people outraged, and furious with the feeling they're getting treatment from a Russian dictatorship."

Dewey came here from the governors' conference where the statement to Gabrielson was formulated.

Another governor who holds a strategically important position in the convention picture arrived yesterday—Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania. Fine skipped the governors' conference so his name did not appear on the telegram. He has taken no sides in the Taft-Eisenhower scrap, and his decision could be important when he makes it.

He is credited with controling from 11 to 21 of Pennsylvania's 70-man delegation which shows in the Associated Press count as split 32 for Eisenhower, 24 for Taft and 14 uncommitted. However, Fine is reported to be able to sway possibly more than the 14 who are officially uncommitted.

Taft planned a serious meeting with Fine today. They chatted briefly at a cocktail party yesterday.

Taft planned to return to Washington by air today, and spend the next two days on Senate business. He expects to come back to Chicago Saturday or Sunday, bringing Mrs. Taft.

Wants TV Coverage

New York, July 3 (AP)—Joseph N. McConnell, president of the National Broadcasting Company, has urged the Republican National Committee to reconsider its ban on radio-television coverage of the credentials commitee sessions. In a telegram yesterday to Committee Chairman Guy Gabrielson, McConnell said it was unfair to ban radio-TV coverage while permitting newspaper reporters to attend the sessions.

Held as AWOL

Wilfred Hahn, who gave his address as 14 North Front street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Clarence Brophy as a soldier allegedly absent without leave from Camp Kilmer. He was taken into custody from here by two corporals from West Point, Paul Metz and Alden Woolley. The police report at 2:30 p. m., said Hahn was arrested by the detective at the Kingston Point beach.

Taft Wants the Governor as a Fan, Too

Holding in his hand a fan with his name on it, Sen. Robert A. Taft (right) shakes hands in Chicago with Pennsylvania Gov. John S. Fine, who presumably controls one of the largest blocs of uncommitted Republican convention votes in the nation. Fine says that he has not made up his mind whether to support either Taft or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Between the two is Albert Pick, Jr., hotel owner. (AP Wirephoto).

gate to help in this fight for fair proceedings at the convention.

Conformity to Principles

"I'm going to ask every delegate to do his part and see to it that the proceedings and decisions of the convention conform to the American and Republican principles of clean and honorable conduct."

Eisenhower's farewell statement came on the heels of news yesterday that the forces of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio had taken control of the pre-convention maneuvers and that the GOP National Committee had seated the Taft slate of delegates from Georgia.

Eisenhower said he believed the convention will uphold the Republican principles to fair play and majority rule.

"We are determined to win on next Nov. 4," the geenral said. "At Chicago, we will prove that we deserve to win."

"And the Cabots speak only to God."

Schroeder said that perhaps the next time Lodge is in contact with the deity he will try to find out "was I thief all three times I voted for this Georgia delegation or only on the last occasion."

Then the Louisiana fight started.

13 Are Challenged

Eisenhower backers challenged 13 of the 15 pro-Taft delegates from Louisiana, charted they were picked by "phoney" tactics, declared the delegates were stolen from them just as the Ike people say they were robbed by the Taftites in Texas.

Taft forces countered with a nine-inch-high pile of blue-bound documents intended to show their delegates were honestly elected according to the rules.

They wanted to limit the argument to six delegates since seven other contests has been referred back to the Taft-run state committee. But the Eisenhower forces fought to put all 13 challenged delegates into contest.

Taft unquestionably held the whip hand in the current maneuverings before the national committee but the Eisenhower supporters insisted it would be a different story in a few days.

'Independence' Often Just a Fancy Name for Anger

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

On Friday, Bob Ames came home from college for the week-end. Everything was fine, until Saturday afternoon when he and his father locked battle in the eternal argument over the use of the family station wagon.

Upstairs sorting laundry, Mrs. Ames heard her husband roar something about a "spoiled, irresponsible pup." She stood still listening to her son's shouted retort, "OK, that tears it! I'm quitting school as of now. I'm going to be independent of anyone who feels like that about me. I'm going to work for my own keep."

The back door slammed. There was the sound of pounding feet as Bob took the stairs three at a time and rushed down the hall to his room.

When his mother opened his door with a pile of clean shirts, he was ripping suits from his closet.

"Go away," he said. "You can't talk me out of going to work this time. Go away. This time I mean business. I want independence."

"Who's trying to talk you out of anything?" asked his mother, calmly stuffing soiled underwear in her laundry bag. "Go on — quit school. Just don't make speeches about 'independence,' that's all. How dare you talk about 'independence' when you let Dad's impatience tell you what to do with your life? You don't want to quit school — you're just mad! Nobody's independent when they let what other people say make up their minds for them."

Bob went back to college. What's more, he graduated. He went back because his mother knew what "independence" does and does not mean. To be independent, we must be self-governed, not governed by reactions to what others say or do.

If Bob had left college, his act would have been dependent, not independent. It would have been motivated, not by his own wishes but by his resentful reaction to his father's impatience. As reaction is related to the act that begets it, Bob's action would not have been his action at all, but merely the creation of somebody else.

Someday Bob may have to work for an impatient and demanding employer. Will he be independent if he permits his reactions to his boss' displeasing conduct to deprive him of realistic advancement in his chosen work? Will he be self-governing if he allows these reactions to displace him from a position that he needs and wants? I think not.

He will be self-governing only if he can resist making moves dictated by his reactions to his boss and make them only when they promote his growth and progress.

Bob's mother was right in not permitting her son to glorify his angry reactions with the name of "independence."

Young people tend to toss this word about ignorantly and loosely. Helping them gain an understanding of what it really means is one of the most vital responsibilities we have. Their habit of glamorizing impulsive reactions to hurt or criticism as "indepedence" is a dangerous one. It diverts their attenion from their actual problem, which is dependence that needs instruction.

By using the word, they seek to justify the anger that makes them resign jobs too quickly, that sends them into hasty and ill-advised marriages. The use of the word promotes thoughtfulness and the glib excuse for the failure to know themselves.

Anger can't hurt us badly when we know its name. It gets its work in when we call it by fancy ones.

"Where the Lowells speak only to the Cabots

"And the Cabots speak only to God."

Schroeder said that perhaps the next time Lodge is in contact with the deity he will try to find out "was I thief all three times I voted for this Georgia delegation or only on the last occasion."

Then the Louisiana fight started.

13 Are Challenged

Eisenhower backers challenged 13 of the 15 pro-Taft delegates from Louisiana, charted they were picked by "phoney" tactics, declared the delegates were stolen from them just as the Ike people say they were robbed by the Taftites in Texas.

Taft forces countered with a nine-inch-high pile of blue-bound documents intended to show their delegates were honestly elected according to the rules.

They wanted to limit the argument to six delegates since seven other contests has been referred back to the Taft-run state committee. But the Eisenhower forces fought to put all 13 challenged delegates into contest.

Taft unquestionably held the whip hand in the current maneuverings before the national committee but the Eisenhower supporters insisted it would be a different story in a few days.

'Independence' Often Just a Fancy Name for Anger

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

On Friday, Bob Ames came home from colllege for the week-end. Everything was fine, until Saturday afternoon when he and his father locked battle in the eternal argument over the use of the family station wagon.

Upstairs sorting laundry, Mrs. Ames heard her husband roar something about a "spoiled, irresponsible pup." She stood still listening to her son's shouted retort, "OK, that tears it! I'm quitting school as of now. I'm going to be independent of anyone who feels like that about me. I'm going to work for my own keep."

The back door slammed. There was the sound of pounding feet as Bob took the stairs three at a time and rushed down the hall to his room.

When his mother opened his door with a pile of clean shirts, he was ripping suits from his closet.

"Go away," he said. "You can't talk me out of going to work this time. Go away. This time I mean business. I want independence."

"Who's trying to talk you out of anything?" asked his mother, calmly stuffing soiled underwear in her laundry bag. "Go on — quit school. Just don't make speeches about 'independence,' that's all. How dare you talk about 'independence' when you let Dad's impatience tell you what to do with your life? You don't want to quit school — you're just mad! Nobody's independent when they let what other people say make up their minds for them."

Bob went back to college. What's more, he graduated. He went back because his mother knew what "independence" does and does not mean. To be independent, we must be self-governed, not governed by reactions to what others say or do.

If Bob had left college, his act would have been dependent, not independent. It would have been motivated, not by his own wishes but by his resentful reaction to his father's impatience. As reaction is related to the act that begets it, Bob's action would not have been his action at all, but merely the creation of somebody else.

Someday Bob may have to work for an impatient and demanding employer. Will he be independent if he permits his reactions to his boss' displeasing conduct to deprive him of realistic advancement in his chosen work? Will he be self-governing if he allows these reactions to displace him from a position that he needs and wants? I think not.

He will be self-governing only if he can resist making moves dictated by his reactions to his boss and make them only when they promote his growth and progress.

Bob's mother was right in not permitting her son to glorify his angry reactions with the name of "independence."

Young people tend to toss this word about ignorantly and loosely. Helping them gain an understanding of what it really means is one of the most vital responsibilities we have. Their habit of glamorizing impulsive reactions to hurt or criticism as "indepedence" is a dangerous one. It diverts their attenion from their actual problem, which is dependence that needs instruction.

By using the word, they seek to justify the anger that makes them resign jobs too quickly, that sends them into hasty and ill-advised marriages. The use of the word promotes thoughtfulness and the glib excuse for the failure to know themselves.

Anger can't hurt us badly when we know its name. It gets its work in when we call it by fancy ones.

INDEPENDENCE—SELF-RELIANCE

Independence Day celebrates our birth as a nation. What we gained on this day in 1776 was political independence, freedom from the domination of a mother government whose colonial policy showed little understanding of the problems and interests of remote America.

Yet too often the fact is lost sight of that we won another kind of independence in the American Revolutionary War. That historic uprising was a social as well as a political revolution.

We fought for more than the lifting of the yoke of foreign domination. We wanted freedom from all manner of economic restrictions. We wished the liberty to be ourselves completely, to develop as our talents and interest and our particular environment gave promise we could.

From that struggle grew a nation wedded to the ideals of independence and experienced in the practice of it. Americans made up a rugged company, self-reliant, rich in individual resource, proud of personal freedom.

The circumstances of life in this country, and on this earth, have changed mightily since the first century and a half of America's growth. Industrial civilization, a tremendous engine of production, has transformed the things we do to get our essential substance.

The complex interplay of economic forces turned loose by this great engine has brought many problems that are beyond the control of individual men. They are often victims of economic events far removed from their small sphere. They find themselves helpless to combat the effect of these incidents.

To men in a breadline, independence is a hollow word. So when the great depression struck, they looked to the only force they could see which was big enough and powerful enough to hit back at the mysterious forces robbing them of their livelihood. That was government.

It happened that Americans called upon the Democratic Party to use the power of government at this moment in history. But many historians believe that any party sooner or later would have been compelled to follow the same course. Men could not have been allowed to starve through no fault of their own.

No one can quarrel with the aim of safeguarding free men from disasters beyond their control. What seems unfortunate, however, is that somehow, in this painful adjustment to the complexities of a new age, we seemed to lose some of our traditional reverence for the independence of spirit that had made us great.

Whether the party in power is or is not partly to blame for this is for the politicians to argue. It is important here to note only that the loss appears real. The habit of independence, of drawing on one's own resources, is not so strong as it once was.

It would be absurd to argue that we could return to the kind of independence we knew as a budding nation in the 19th century. But it is just as absurd to contend that because our difficulties are vastly complicated today, we therefore can do nothing for ourselves.

A man whose house is demolished by storm or fire may rightly welcome the band of neighbors who pitch in to help rebuild it. But he should not therefore look expectantly down the road each day for neighbors who might help him tend his fields and his stock. The normal labors and trials of life he must shoulder alone.

This is an occasion for Americans to remember their old habits of independence and to begin to give them fresh meaning against a totally new backdrop. The task calls for courage, for a rising to the challenge. Americans have that courage, and they have never run from a real test.

The Senate practice of unlimited debate is sometimes regarded as a device primarily for defeating legislation that certain Southern senators dislike, such as the civil rights bills. This is only part of the story. Any kind of bill may on occasion be talked to death, and the other senators are not interested enough to do anything about it.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE INFALLIBLE

One of the weaknesses of the great is that they come to believe that they are infallible. Herbert Hoover once told me that after a newly-elected President settles down in the White House, enmeshed in the heavy affairs of mankind, he becomes a prisoner of his staff. That is not limited to Presidents. Yes-men surround greatness with the sweet agreement of the sycophant.

I could not help thinking of that as I was reading Charles Callan Tansill's magnificent study of half a century of steps that led to war, "Back Door to War." Professor Tansill spent five years reading documents, many of which have never been published, and he comes up with a situation that few, if any of us, knew at the time. Yet millions of human lives have been destroyed and distorted because an error of judgment was made by Neville Chamberlain. History abounds with errors of judgment that prove, beyond cavil, that only God is infallible and that when the great make a mistake, it is often a great mistake.

Tansill tells how, in 1938, the German military men and civilians were sure that they could push Hitler aside. They could get rid of him. These Germans did not want war. Tansill gives the list as follows:

". . . In Germany, a large group of important persons were plotting to push Hitler aside and present a program that would preserve the peace of Europe. This group included such outstanding army officers as Colonel General Ludwig von Beck, Chief of Staff; Colonel General Kurt von Hammerstein, Commander in Chief of the German army from 1930 to 1934; General Erwin von Witzleben; General Georg Thomas, head of the Economic Division of the planning staff of the army; General Eduard Wagner, Quartermaster General; Major General Hans Oster; and Colonel Claus von Stauffenberg. Admiral Canaris was especially active in this plot to overthrow Hitler. The civilians included Carl Friedrich Goerdeler, one-time Mayor of Leipzig; Hans B. Gisevius; Johannes Politz, Prussian Minister of Finance; and Ulrich von Hassell, former German ambassador in Rome."

Tansill produces the evidence that ". . . General Beck sent to the entire general staff a memorandum which presented the view that hostilities with Czechoslovakia would bring about a general European war which Germany could not win. General Walther von Brauchitsch approved the main points in the memorandum and took it to Hitler in July 1938 with definite words of warning. The Fuehrer immediately brushed it aside and continued his Sudeten program."

General Beck went further. He actually told the British of the menace and suggested that the British send Hitler a stiff note that violation of Czech neutrality would mean war. Chamberlain, who was fully appraised of the facts, preferred to appease Hitler because it was his judgment that if war came immediately, Great Britain would not be ready.

Here is a mighty incident in history. The chief of staff of a country pleads with another country to take steps to prevent war. Beck, whose business it was to fight and win a war, realized that there was little time to keep his country out of war.

The German plotters were ready to take action against Hitler on September 13, 1938, and just as they got ready Chamberlain decided to visit Hitler at Berchtesgaden. Actually, on September 28 ". . . when General von Witzleben went to the office of General Halder to receive the orders that would start the Putsch, a message came through to the effect that Chamberlain and Daladier would meet Hitler at Munich on the following day. This news checked the immediate execution of the plot, and the appeasement as recorded in the Munich Agreement so strengthened Hitler's position that all plans to push him aside had to be indefinitely postponed. . . ."

What would have happened had Hitler been pushed aside or killed in September, 1938, we do not know, but one can speculate on how wonderful the world would be today had World War II not taken place.

The error was Neville Chamberlain's. He mistook the character of Hitler. He misunderstood the information at his disposal. He did not trust those who desired peace; he trusted one of the deepest scoundreds in human history. He committed his country—and, by indirection, our country—to war and disaster. It was a mistake. Does it matter whose mistake in the vast tragedy of our times?

That Body of Yours

INFECTION AND ARTHRITIS

Although the miracle drugs, ACTH and Cortisone, have brought dramatic relief of symptoms in many cases, it must be remembered that arthritis comes quietly and is present in the joints and blood for a long time before the patient feels the pain and stiffness. This means that even when the miracle drugs are used, it may take a long while, perhaps as long as arthritis has been present, to get rid of the symptoms. It is this long wait that so discourages patients with arthritis. Dr. Philip Lewin, in his book "Arthritis and the Rheumatic Diseases," states that infection is not considered the common cause of arthritis as it was just a few years ago; nevertheless, he tells us that "a large proportion of rheumatoid arthritis is undoubtedly due to infection. Your case may be caused by germs which lodge in your teeth, your throat, your sinuses, your gall bladder or your appendix and set up infection there. In some way the germs reach out from their lodgment, travel along the blood stream and find a second home in a joint. The joint then develops the infection in the form of arthritis. If your joint is examined, the germs are found there. These germs may be those organisms which cause pneumonia or streptococcic throat, or abscessed teeth or tonsils, syphilis or typhoid fever.

If the infection is in the early stage it may be completely removed and no arthritis symptoms may occur, as with a case I mentioned once before. A boxer came to me with a supposed back injury. As he had pain when at rest, I suggested an X-ray of the teeth which showed infection in three molar teeth. The removal of these teeth caused a flare-up in his back pain for a short time and he was discouraged. However, in a matter of weeks, he was free of pain and went on to win the amateur welterweight boxing championship.

Because many cases of arthritis are caused by cold and dampness, by eating too much starch foods (sugar, potatoes, bread) and also by injury, many patients, physicians and dentists hesitate about having infected teeth and tonsils removed. However, when infection is definitely present, the question is not whether they should be or should not be removed but whether or not to build up the patient first so that the removal of the infection will not cause so much shock or poisoning of the blood.

The Air We Breathe

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Ike Notes — There's been less gloom around Eisenhower headquarters. His managers, once in the doldrums, now look happier, think Ike has made inroads on Taft delegates. A total of 75 is the number they think he has wooed and won during charm-exuding talks . . . The general himself is still suffering from a split personality. Sometimes he veers to one policy, sometimes to another. Perhaps this is because he knows that to win the nomination he has to be conservative enough to please the Republicans; yet to get elected he has to be liberal enough to please Democrats . . . Ike claims he doesn't want to know what his staff is doing. (Sometimes things would be a lot better off if he did know.) He even said he didn't know what the good news was that Senator Lodge brought him the other day, though a lot of other people knew it was the support of Michigan's potent Arthur Summerfield, which may swing the large Michigan delegation . . . Mamie Eisenhower, completely new to politics and expected to be difficult, has been just the opposite. She's cooperated with photographers, newsmen . . . Ike also has done everything his managers have asked, continues in excellent spirits.

Ike And Press—If Eisenhower is nominated it won't be through any fault of his staff. They have pulled in opposite directions, differed on policies, missed important cues . . . One major boner caused Arthur Vandenberg, Jr., son of the late great senator, to turn in his resignation. However, it was withdrawn, and, in the end, the boner turned out OK . . . This was the private Ike luncheon held by Washington trained seals — Charles Lucey of Scripps-Howard, Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune, Scotty Reston of New York Times, Fred Collins of Providence Journal, et al . . . No wire services, no networks, no news magazines were invited. Naturally they hit the ceiling . . . Harry Luce, Time-Life publisher, hearing about the off-the-record lunch, remarked to Palmer Hoyt of the Denver Post: "I'll call up my man, Ed Darby, and find out what happened." But his man, Darby, had been barred. Naturally, Luce, a strong Ike-man, wasn't happy . . . The ensuing storm from those who were snubbed gave the luncheon more headlines than if Ike had made a speech. His speech would have cost money for radio and TV time. Jealousy between newsmen cost nothing.

Frantic Congress—During the hot-weather-hot temper wind-up of Congress, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota got into a backstage tiff with Majority Leader McFarland of Arizona, told him his leadership "stunk," that he was letting McCarran of Nevada run the Senate....Most lobbyists took a licking when the Senate and House conferees locked themselves up to iron out the controls bill, Senator Maybank of South Carolina took the lead in plugging loopholes the lobbyists had driven in the House bill....One lobbyist, Payne of the real estate crowd, kept constant vigil outside the conference door buttonholing legislators as they came out. In the end, several rent control loopholes remained in the bill.

Combat Bonus—The extra pay for GI's in front-line trenches proposed by this columnist two years ago, passed the Senate OK, but got stymied in the House by Carl Vinson of Georgia and Dewey Short of Missouri....It calls for a combat bonus in Korea similar to that paid in World War 2, also similar to that paid today to submarine crews and airmen for extra risk....Byrd of Virginia also helped stop the bonus, but Senators Monroney of Oklahoma, Long of Louisiana and Moody of Michigan are making a last desperate effort to pass it....Despite opposition by southern coal operators, Chairman Graham Barden of North Carolina has been pushing the mine-safety bill. The members of his labor committee who opposed are four Republicans—Gwinn, N. Y.; Wint Smith, Kans.; Morton, Ky.; Werdel, Calif. Also three Democrats—Wood, Ga.; Lucas, Texas; Tackett, Ark.

Democratic Doings—Cleveland's Demo boss, Ray Miller, wisecracks that Ohio's Governor Lausche "wants so much to be like Abraham Lincoln that he won't be satisfied until he's assassinated." ....Republicans claim the Dems should get a new campaign slogan: "Honesty is no substitute for experience."....Demo Chairman Frank McKinney is trying to eradicate the Mason-Dixon Line inside the Democratic party—he is being extra considerate of visiting Dixiecrats, has assured key southern senators they will be consulted before drafting the Chicago platform....McKinney's wooing of Mississippi Dixiecrat J. P. Coleman, however, didn't sit well at the White House. Coleman was recognized by McKinney as new Mississippi committeeman even though he's a nonloyalist, potential bolter....Strom Thurmond, Dixiecrat candidate for president in '48 this year will be a delegate at Chicago....Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Barkley have been working quietly to head off any Dixiecrat bolts. The Mississippi delegation appears the most mutinous....In the hot Kefauver-Harriman primary in the District of Columbia where there was a heavy Negro turnout, holders of car license Nos. J-9757 and 721 state that they were not carrying repeaters from poll to poll, but rather carrying colored voters to polling places where the waiting line was not so long.

Good News for Stalin—The Senate-House Appropriations cuts will knock 700 planes out of next year's budget. That's 50 per cent more than the Communists have shot down in the Korean War... the man responsible for the severe air force slash is—Assistant Secretary of Defense W. J. McNeil. The Senate Appropriations Committee sent him a list of questions to find out how serious the cuts would be. McNeil got the answer from the air force, which warned that the cuts would be a dangerous security gamble. But, instead of sending the air force answers back to the Senate, McNeil sent his own answers—in order to appease the economy bloc... The air force has warned that, if the steel strike continues, jet-engine production will come to a standstill in 30 days and the last jet-engine then in production will be delivered to the air force in 60 days.... The House has cut Civil-Defense funds from $600,000,000 down to a measley $37,000,000—a reduction of over 90 per cent. This means that our civilian security program against atom warfare, including the training of 3,000,000 Civil-Defense volunteers, will be virtually put out of business.

Steel Strike—Smart John L. Lewis garnered big headlines by offering $10,000,000 to the steelworkers from the United Mine Workers' kitty but then never came across. He merely notified his bank that he would loan the money. Quipped a steelworker official: "Our credit is plenty good at our own banks."... John L. has disliked CIO boss Phil Murray ever since they split over CIO policies, likes to appear patronizing.... Presidential assistant John Steelman says privately he'll sit out the steel strike until both management and labor start hurting and are forced to talk compromise.

Massey's Folly

A fantastic building in Farrington, England, was erected by the labor of two men, Rev. T. H. Massey aided by one laborer. The red brick building with its towers and battlements, is a mighty monument of two men's labor. It is known as Massey's Folly, took 62 years to finish and now serves as a school and village hall.

Today In Washington

Senate Committee Accuses State Department of Allowing Red Tools to Shape Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 3—Perhaps the Department of State, which was so quick to apologize to a citizen for a mixup on a passport, will now apologize to the American people for the gullible way it succumbed to the machinations of Communist sympathizers and fellow travelers in formulating United States policy in the Far East—this is the challenge which stands out plainly in the report just filed with the Senate by the Senate Judiciary Committee of which Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, Democrat, is chairman.

After more than a year of hearings, preceded by five months of intensive investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations, the Senate committee, composed of Republicans and Democrats, now makes public a report which points more than a finger of suspicion at the Communistic influences that led to the loss of China to the Communists. It flatly accuses the Department of State of having permitted, for example, persons who are termed instruments of the Soviet conspiracy, to shape American policy.

The report is a lengthy one and gives chapter and verse in case after case where a number of witnesses identified several individuals as Communists and "fellow travelers" who apparently had access through American officials to the White House as well as to the Department of State.

The Institute of Pacific Relations, which drew to its membership not only innocent persons but financial support from corporations and foundations which did not know the true purposes of the institute, was subjected to a very penetrating examination both through public hearings and through files which revealed a vast amount of evidence linking up the institute with Soviet policy and programs of propaganda.

The Senate subcommittee of Internal Security is composed for the most part of lawyers—one of them, Senator Willis Smith of North Carolina, Democrat, having been president of the American Bar Association. Other members of the committee served on the bench in their respective states before coming to the Senate. Here are senators of both political parties who weighed the evidence in a lengthy examination at which all witnesses were given an opportunity to refute the charges and answer questions.

As a consequence of the interrogation, in two cases—those of Owen Lattimore and John P. Davies, Jr.—The Senate Committee recommends that the Department of Justice send the contradictions in testimony to a federal grand jury for a decision as to whether perjury indictments should or should not be made.

The Senate Judiciary Committee recommends a new investigation of "Communist infiltration into an influence upon the Treasury Department and other agencies forming and administering fiscal and monetary policies" and also a new inquiry into "the role of Alger Hiss in the formulation of foreign policy of the United States and his influence on personnel decisions in the State Department."

The whole record is voluminous, but the conclusions of the Senate Committee are briefly stated. Senator McCarran summed them up as he said to the Senate:

"I am convinced, from the evidence developed in this inquiry, that but for the machinations of the small group that controlled and activated the Institute of Pacific Relations, China today would be free and a bulwark against further advance of the Red hordes into the Far East."

This is but another way of saying that American casualties in Korea, which now exceed 100,000, can be laid at the doorstep of the Department of State in having allowed American influence in the Far East to deteriorate to the point where the Communists dared aggression in Korea.

"Our government agencies," continued Senator McCarran, "have been infiltrated by persons whose allegiance is with Communist Russia. Our official secrets have been bared to agents of the Soviet; loyal and sincere men have been driven from their diplomatic posts; and, under the cloak of public office, messages have been written and words spoken that have tended to weaken this nation's position in world affairs."

Many of the Communists who played a part in the Institute of Pacific Relations are not well known and the significance of their work is in their contacts with the Department of State and in places where American policy in the Far East was shaped. There are charges also that such help as was being pledged to the Nationalist government was sabotaged inside the American government.

The report has already led to indignant denials and emphatic declarations of innocence by both Messrs. Davies and Lattimore. Incidentlly, Lattimore is referred to in the report as a 'conscious, articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy."

Mr. Davies has disclosed that the Department of Justice already had looked into his case and felt that there was no basis for action. Mr. Lattimore says the transcript of the record will show that he didn't contradict himself. And so the controversy goes. But somehow China was lost to the west and there are plenty of documents which show that many persons—besides Lattimore and Davies—influenced the Department of State in the making of Far East policy.

It is more important for the country to know what happened in the Department of State than to be concerned at this time merely with the names of the many individuals who, through the Institute of Pacific Relations, helped to bring about the failure of American policy in China.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Boston, July 2—The Norfolk Medical News, the official journal of the Norfolk district of the Massachusetts Medical Society, bemoans a dangerous shortage of competent nurses, states some of the reasons and suggests some remedies. But one of the most important reasons is ignored entirely not only by this professional publication but by practically all others that have discussed the subject. That is the almost total exclusion of men from the profession, or occupation, of nursing and our sentimentality over the women in it, particularly the nurses in the army and navy. It would be a fine idea to scrap these auxiliaries, settle our obligations to the women concerned and henceforth use men exclusively for male patients. We should not have to deal with any women patients in service hospitals, but there will be a growing practice in distaff problems for a long time as the women who served in the Wacs and Waves get old and put themselves in for the operations and treatments that are expectable in middle and old age.

There never was a shadow of necessity for the enlistment of women as auxiliaries to any branch. The British began it with their Wacs in the first war when their manpower really was down. We took a little flyer ourselves along toward the end of that one. We never saw the day when we didn't have plenty of men to handle all the combat and service jobs but we fell for the idea that it would be cozy to put a lot of girls into uniform and ship them all over the world as inspiration to our brave lads, which was an effete notion and no good from any standpont. The man-hours wasted by the limitation of production by union rules, to say nothing of the strikes which cost us about forty million man-days in three war years, refute the proposition that we had to call on the girls to help.

We grant commissions to women nurses and when they go to war we have to spare soldiers from real military duties to patrol their quarters and keep amorous colonels at bay. Those were romantic pictures of army nurses in the Pacific Islands, dressed in cavalry pants and doing their laundry in their helmets, but what were they doing way off there that men couldn't do? A male nurse of equal competence doesn't even rate corporal until he makes the grade and nobody tries to neck him or dizzy his head with stingers with sordid motives. Therefore we are spared the expense of guarding his chastity and we save further money on the big difference between the male and female pay and allowances.

Since Walt Whitman, who seems to have been a rather precious character in his Civil War days, there has been a bigotry against male nurses tinged with an absurd suspicion that they are more likely to be homosexual than an equal number of plasterers or tailors. That is an expensive superstition because it has given the women almost a monopoly on the work whereas the entire military and naval nursing service should be male and we should have enough civilian male nurses to take care of the male patients in civilian hospitals. There is no logic behind this prejudice as a moment's honest consideration will prove. Nevertheless it has served to discourage normal young men from

Independence Day celebrates our birth as a nation. What we gained on this day in 1776 was political independence, freedom from the domination of a mother government whose colonial policy showed little understanding of the problems and interests of remote America.

Yet too often the fact is lost sight of that we won another kind of independence in the American Revolutionary War. That historic uprising was a social as well as a political revolution.

We fought for more than the lifting of the yoke of foreign domination. We wanted freedom from all manner of economic restrictions. We wished the liberty to be ourselves completely, to develop as our talents and interest and our particular environment gave promise we could.

From that struggle grew a nation wedded to the ideals of independence and experienced in the practice of it. Americans made up a rugged company, self-reliant, rich in individual resource, proud of personal freedom.

The circumstances of life in this country, and on this earth, have changed mightily since the first century and a half of America's growth. Industrial civilization, a tremendous engine of production, has transformed the things we do to get our essential substance.

The complex interplay of economic forces turned loose by this great engine has brought many problems that are beyond the control of individual men. They are often victims of economic events far removed from their small sphere. They find themselves helpless to combat the effect of these incidents.

To men in a breadline, independence is a hollow word. So when the great depression struck, they looked to the only force they could see which was big enough and powerful enough to hit back at the mysterious forces robbing them of their livelihood. That was government.

It happened that Americans called upon the Democratic Party to use the power of government at this moment in history. But many historians believe that any party sooner or later would have been compelled to follow the same course. Men could not have been allowed to starve through no fault of their own.

No one can quarrel with the aim of safeguarding free men from disasters beyond their control. What seems unfortunate, however, is that somehow, in this painful adjustment to the complexities of a new age, we seemed to lose some of our traditional reverence for the independence of spirit that had made us great.

Whether the party in power is or is not partly to blame for this is for the politicians to argue. It is important here to note only that the loss appears real. The habit of independence, of drawing on one's own resources, is not so strong as it once was.

It would be absurd to argue that we could return to the kind of independence we knew as a budding nation in the 19th century. But it is just as absurd to contend that because our difficulties are vastly complicated today, we therefore can do nothing for ourselves.

A man whose house is demolished by storm or fire may rightly welcome the band of neighbors who pitch in to help rebuild it. But he should not therefore look expectantly down the road each day for neighbors who might help him tend his fields and his stock. The normal labors and trials of life he must shoulder alone.

This is an occasion for Americans to remember their old habits of independence and to begin to give them fresh meaning against a totally new backdrop. The task calls for courage, for a rising to the challenge. Americans have that courage, and they have never run from a real test.

The Senate practice of unlimited debate is sometimes regarded as a device primarily for defeating legislation that certain Southern senators dislike, such as the civil rights bills. This is only part of the story. Any kind of bill may on occasion be talked to death, and the other senators are not interested enough to do anything about it.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE INFALLIBLE

One of the weaknesses of the great is that they come to believe that they are infallible. Herbert Hoover once told me that after a newly-elected President settles down in the White House, enmeshed in the heavy affairs of mankind, he becomes a prisoner of his staff. That is not limited to Presidents. Yes-men surround greatness with the sweet agreement of the sycophant.

I could not help thinking of that as I was reading Charles Callan Tansill's magnificent study of half a century of steps that led to war, "Back Door to War." Professor Tansill spent five years reading documents, many of which have never been published, and he comes up with a situation that few, if any of us, knew at the time. Yet millions of human lives have been destroyed and distorted because an error of judgment was made by Neville Chamberlain. History abounds with errors of judgment that prove, beyond cavil, that only God is infallible and that when the great make a mistake, it is often a great mistake.

Tansill tells how, in 1938, the German military men and civilians were sure that they could push Hitler aside. They could get rid of him. These Germans did not want war. Tansill gives the list as follows:

". . . In Germany, a large group of important persons were plotting to push Hitler aside and present a program that would preserve the peace of Europe. This group included such outstanding army officers as Colonel General Ludwig von Beck, Chief of Staff; Colonel General Kurt von Hammerstein, Commander in Chief of the German army from 1930 to 1934; General Erwin von Witzleben; General Georg Thomas, head of the Economic Division of the planning staff of the army; General Eduard Wagner, Quartermaster General; Major General Hans Oster; and Colonel Claus von Stauffenberg. Admiral Canaris was especially active in this plot to overthrow Hitler. The civilians included Carl Friedrich Goerdeler, one-time Mayor of Leipzig; Hans B. Gisevius; Johannes Politz, Prussian Minister of Finance; and Ulrich von Hassell, former German ambassador in Rome."

Tansill produces the evidence that ". . . General Beck sent to the entire general staff a memorandum which presented the view that hostilities with Czechoslovakia would bring about a general European war which Germany could not win. General Walther von Brauchitsch approved the main points in the memorandum and took it to Hitler in July 1938 with definite words of warning. The Fuehrer immediately brushed it aside and continued his Sudeten program."

General Beck went further. He actually told the British of the menace and suggested that the British send Hitler a stiff note that violation of Czech neutrality would mean war. Chamberlain, who was fully appraised of the facts, preferred to appease Hitler because it was his judgment that if war came immediately, Great Britain would not be ready.

Here is a mighty incident in history. The chief of staff of a country pleads with another country to take steps to prevent war. Beck, whose business it was to fight and win a war, realized that there was little time to keep his country out of war.

The German plotters were ready to take action against Hitler on September 13, 1938, and just as they got ready Chamberlain decided to visit Hitler at Berchtesgaden. Actually, on September 28 ". . . when General von Witzleben went to the office of General Halder to receive the orders that would start the Putsch, a message came through to the effect that Chamberlain and Daladier would meet Hitler at Munich on the following day. This news checked the immediate execution of the plot, and the appeasement as recorded in the Munich Agreement so strengthened Hitler's position that all plans to push him aside had to be indefinitely postponed. . . ."

What would have happened had Hitler been pushed aside or killed in September, 1938, we do not know, but one can speculate on how wonderful the world would be today had World War II not taken place.

The error was Neville Chamberlain's. He mistook the character of Hitler. He misunderstood the information at his disposal. He did not trust those who desired peace; he trusted one of the deepest scoundreds in human history. He committed his country—and, by indirection, our country—to war and disaster. It was a mistake. Does it matter whose mistake in the vast tragedy of our times?

That Body of Yours

INFECTION AND ARTHRITIS

Although the miracle drugs, ACTH and Cortisone, have brought dramatic relief of symptoms in many cases, it must be remembered that arthritis comes quietly and is present in the joints and blood for a long time before the patient feels the pain and stiffness. This means that even when the miracle drugs are used, it may take a long while, perhaps as long as arthritis has been present, to get rid of the symptoms. It is this long wait that so discourages patients with arthritis. Dr. Philip Lewin, in his book "Arthritis and the Rheumatic Diseases," states that infection is not considered the common cause of arthritis as it was just a few years ago; nevertheless, he tells us that "a large proportion of rheumatoid arthritis is undoubtedly due to infection. Your case may be caused by germs which lodge in your teeth, your throat, your sinuses, your gall bladder or your appendix and set up infection there. In some way the germs reach out from their lodgment, travel along the blood stream and find a second home in a joint. The joint then develops the infection in the form of arthritis. If your joint is examined, the germs are found there. These germs may be those organisms which cause pneumonia or streptococcic throat, or abscessed teeth or tonsils, syphilis or typhoid fever.

If the infection is in the early stage it may be completely removed and no arthritis symptoms may occur, as with a case I mentioned once before. A boxer came to me with a supposed back injury. As he had pain when at rest, I suggested an X-ray of the teeth which showed infection in three molar teeth. The removal of these teeth caused a flare-up in his back pain for a short time and he was discouraged. However, in a matter of weeks, he was free of pain and went on to win the amateur welterweight boxing championship.

Because many cases of arthritis are caused by cold and dampness, by eating too much starch foods (sugar, potatoes, bread) and also by injury, many patients, physicians and dentists hesitate about having infected teeth and tonsils removed. However, when infection is definitely present, the question is not whether they should be or should not be removed but whether or not to build up the patient first so that the removal of the infection will not cause so much shock or poisoning of the blood.

The Air We Breathe

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Ike Notes — There's been less gloom around Eisenhower headquarters. His managers, once in the doldrums, now look happier, think Ike has made inroads on Taft delegates. A total of 75 is the number they think he has wooed and won during charm-exuding talks . . . The general himself is still suffering from a split personality. Sometimes he veers to one policy, sometimes to another. Perhaps this is because he knows that to win the nomination he has to be conservative enough to please the Republicans; yet to get elected he has to be liberal enough to please Democrats . . . Ike claims he doesn't want to know what his staff is doing. (Sometimes things would be a lot better off if he did know.) He even said he didn't know what the good news was that Senator Lodge brought him the other day, though a lot of other people knew it was the support of Michigan's potent Arthur Summerfield, which may swing the large Michigan delegation . . . Mamie Eisenhower, completely new to politics and expected to be difficult, has been just the opposite. She's cooperated with photographers, newsmen . . . Ike also has done everything his managers have asked, continues in excellent spirits.

Ike And Press—If Eisenhower is nominated it won't be through any fault of his staff. They have pulled in opposite directions, differed on policies, missed important cues . . . One major boner caused Arthur Vandenberg, Jr., son of the late great senator, to turn in his resignation. However, it was withdrawn, and, in the end, the boner turned out OK . . . This was the private Ike luncheon held by Washington trained seals — Charles Lucey of Scripps-Howard, Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune, Scotty Reston of New York Times, Fred Collins of Providence Journal, et al . . . No wire services, no networks, no news magazines were invited. Naturally they hit the ceiling . . . Harry Luce, Time-Life publisher, hearing about the off-the-record lunch, remarked to Palmer Hoyt of the Denver Post: "I'll call up my man, Ed Darby, and find out what happened." But his man, Darby, had been barred. Naturally, Luce, a strong Ike-man, wasn't happy . . . The ensuing storm from those who were snubbed gave the luncheon more headlines than if Ike had made a speech. His speech would have cost money for radio and TV time. Jealousy between newsmen cost nothing.

Frantic Congress—During the hot-weather-hot temper wind-up of Congress, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota got into a backstage tiff with Majority Leader McFarland of Arizona, told him his leadership "stunk," that he was letting McCarran of Nevada run the Senate....Most lobbyists took a licking when the Senate and House conferees locked themselves up to iron out the controls bill, Senator Maybank of South Carolina took the lead in plugging loopholes the lobbyists had driven in the House bill....One lobbyist, Payne of the real estate crowd, kept constant vigil outside the conference door buttonholing legislators as they came out. In the end, several rent control loopholes remained in the bill.

Combat Bonus—The extra pay for GI's in front-line trenches proposed by this columnist two years ago, passed the Senate OK, but got stymied in the House by Carl Vinson of Georgia and Dewey Short of Missouri....It calls for a combat bonus in Korea similar to that paid in World War 2, also similar to that paid today to submarine crews and airmen for extra risk....Byrd of Virginia also helped stop the bonus, but Senators Monroney of Oklahoma, Long of Louisiana and Moody of Michigan are making a last desperate effort to pass it....Despite opposition by southern coal operators, Chairman Graham Barden of North Carolina has been pushing the mine-safety bill. The members of his labor committee who opposed are four Republicans—Gwinn, N. Y.; Wint Smith, Kans.; Morton, Ky.; Werdel, Calif. Also three Democrats—Wood, Ga.; Lucas, Texas; Tackett, Ark.

Democratic Doings—Cleveland's Demo boss, Ray Miller, wisecracks that Ohio's Governor Lausche "wants so much to be like Abraham Lincoln that he won't be satisfied until he's assassinated." ....Republicans claim the Dems should get a new campaign slogan: "Honesty is no substitute for experience."....Demo Chairman Frank McKinney is trying to eradicate the Mason-Dixon Line inside the Democratic party—he is being extra considerate of visiting Dixiecrats, has assured key southern senators they will be consulted before drafting the Chicago platform....McKinney's wooing of Mississippi Dixiecrat J. P. Coleman, however, didn't sit well at the White House. Coleman was recognized by McKinney as new Mississippi committeeman even though he's a nonloyalist, potential bolter....Strom Thurmond, Dixiecrat candidate for president in '48 this year will be a delegate at Chicago....Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Barkley have been working quietly to head off any Dixiecrat bolts. The Mississippi delegation appears the most mutinous....In the hot Kefauver-Harriman primary in the District of Columbia where there was a heavy Negro turnout, holders of car license Nos. J-9757 and 721 state that they were not carrying repeaters from poll to poll, but rather carrying colored voters to polling places where the waiting line was not so long.

Good News for Stalin—The Senate-House Appropriations cuts will knock 700 planes out of next year's budget. That's 50 per cent more than the Communists have shot down in the Korean War... the man responsible for the severe air force slash is—Assistant Secretary of Defense W. J. McNeil. The Senate Appropriations Committee sent him a list of questions to find out how serious the cuts would be. McNeil got the answer from the air force, which warned that the cuts would be a dangerous security gamble. But, instead of sending the air force answers back to the Senate, McNeil sent his own answers—in order to appease the economy bloc... The air force has warned that, if the steel strike continues, jet-engine production will come to a standstill in 30 days and the last jet-engine then in production will be delivered to the air force in 60 days.... The House has cut Civil-Defense funds from $600,000,000 down to a measley $37,000,000—a reduction of over 90 per cent. This means that our civilian security program against atom warfare, including the training of 3,000,000 Civil-Defense volunteers, will be virtually put out of business.

Steel Strike—Smart John L. Lewis garnered big headlines by offering $10,000,000 to the steelworkers from the United Mine Workers' kitty but then never came across. He merely notified his bank that he would loan the money. Quipped a steelworker official: "Our credit is plenty good at our own banks."... John L. has disliked CIO boss Phil Murray ever since they split over CIO policies, likes to appear patronizing.... Presidential assistant John Steelman says privately he'll sit out the steel strike until both management and labor start hurting and are forced to talk compromise.

Today In Washington

Senate Committee Accuses State Department of Allowing Red Tools to Shape Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 3—Perhaps the Department of State, which was so quick to apologize to a citizen for a mixup on a passport, will now apologize to the American people for the gullible way it succumbed to the machinations of Communist sympathizers and fellow travelers in formulating United States policy in the Far East—this is the challenge which stands out plainly in the report just filed with the Senate by the Senate Judiciary Committee of which Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, Democrat, is chairman.

After more than a year of hearings, preceded by five months of intensive investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations, the Senate committee, composed of Republicans and Democrats, now makes public a report which points more than a finger of suspicion at the Communistic influences that led to the loss of China to the Communists. It flatly accuses the Department of State of having permitted, for example, persons who are termed instruments of the Soviet conspiracy, to shape American policy.

The report is a lengthy one and gives chapter and verse in case after case where a number of witnesses identified several individuals as Communists and "fellow travelers" who apparently had access through American officials to the White House as well as to the Department of State.

The Institute of Pacific Relations, which drew to its membership not only innocent persons but financial support from corporations and foundations which did not know the true purposes of the institute, was subjected to a very penetrating examination both through public hearings and through files which revealed a vast amount of evidence linking up the institute with Soviet policy and programs of propaganda.

The Senate subcommittee of Internal Security is composed for the most part of lawyers—one of them, Senator Willis Smith of North Carolina, Democrat, having been president of the American Bar Association. Other members of the committee served on the bench in their respective states before coming to the Senate. Here are senators of both political parties who weighed the evidence in a lengthy examination at which all witnesses were given an opportunity to refute the charges and answer questions.

As a consequence of the interrogation, in two cases—those of Owen Lattimore and John P. Davies, Jr.—The Senate Committee recommends that the Department of Justice send the contradictions in testimony to a federal grand jury for a decision as to whether perjury indictments should or should not be made.

The Senate Judiciary Committee recommends a new investigation of "Communist infiltration into an influence upon the Treasury Department and other agencies forming and administering fiscal and monetary policies" and also a new inquiry into "the role of Alger Hiss in the formulation of foreign policy of the United States and his influence on personnel decisions in the State Department."

The whole record is voluminous, but the conclusions of the Senate Committee are briefly stated. Senator McCarran summed them up as he said to the Senate:

"I am convinced, from the evidence developed in this inquiry, that but for the machinations of the small group that controlled and activated the Institute of Pacific Relations, China today would be free and a bulwark against further advance of the Red hordes into the Far East."

This is but another way of saying that American casualties in Korea, which now exceed 100,000, can be laid at the doorstep of the Department of State in having allowed American influence in the Far East to deteriorate to the point where the Communists dared aggression in Korea.

"Our government agencies," continued Senator McCarran, "have been infiltrated by persons whose allegiance is with Communist Russia. Our official secrets have been bared to agents of the Soviet; loyal and sincere men have been driven from their diplomatic posts; and, under the cloak of public office, messages have been written and words spoken that have tended to weaken this nation's position in world affairs."

Many of the Communists who played a part in the Institute of Pacific Relations are not well known and the significance of their work is in their contacts with the Department of State and in places where American policy in the Far East was shaped. There are charges also that such help as was being pledged to the Nationalist government was sabotaged inside the American government.

The report has already led to indignant denials and emphatic declarations of innocence by both Messrs. Davies and Lattimore. Incidentlly, Lattimore is referred to in the report as a 'conscious, articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy."

Mr. Davies has disclosed that the Department of Justice already had looked into his case and felt that there was no basis for action. Mr. Lattimore says the transcript of the record will show that he didn't contradict himself. And so the controversy goes. But somehow China was lost to the west and there are plenty of documents which show that many persons—besides Lattimore and Davies—influenced the Department of State in the making of Far East policy.

It is more important for the country to know what happened in the Department of State than to be concerned at this time merely with the names of the many individuals who, through the Institute of Pacific Relations, helped to bring about the failure of American policy in China.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Boston, July 2—The Norfolk Medical News, the official journal of the Norfolk district of the Massachusetts Medical Society, bemoans a dangerous shortage of competent nurses, states some of the reasons and suggests some remedies. But one of the most important reasons is ignored entirely not only by this professional publication but by practically all others that have discussed the subject. That is the almost total exclusion of men from the profession, or occupation, of nursing and our sentimentality over the women in it, particularly the nurses in the army and navy. It would be a fine idea to scrap these auxiliaries, settle our obligations to the women concerned and henceforth use men exclusively for male patients. We should not have to deal with any women patients in service hospitals, but there will be a growing practice in distaff problems for a long time as the women who served in the Wacs and Waves get old and put themselves in for the operations and treatments that are expectable in middle and old age.

There never was a shadow of necessity for the enlistment of women as auxiliaries to any branch. The British began it with their Wacs in the first war when their manpower really was down. We took a little flyer ourselves along toward the end of that one. We never saw the day when we didn't have plenty of men to handle all the combat and service jobs but we fell for the idea that it would be cozy to put a lot of girls into uniform and ship them all over the world as inspiration to our brave lads, which was an effete notion and no good from any standpont. The man-hours wasted by the limitation of production by union rules, to say nothing of the strikes which cost us about forty million man-days in three war years, refute the proposition that we had to call on the girls to help.

We grant commissions to women nurses and when they go to war we have to spare soldiers from real military duties to patrol their quarters and keep amorous colonels at bay. Those were romantic pictures of army nurses in the Pacific Islands, dressed in cavalry pants and doing their laundry in their helmets, but what were they doing way off there that men couldn't do? A male nurse of equal competence doesn't even rate corporal until he makes the grade and nobody tries to neck him or dizzy his head with stingers with sordid motives. Therefore we are spared the expense of guarding his chastity and we save further money on the big difference between the male and female pay and allowances.

Since Walt Whitman, who seems to have been a rather precious character in his Civil War days, there has been a bigotry against male nurses tinged with an absurd suspicion that they are more likely to be homosexual than an equal number of plasterers or tailors. That is an expensive superstition because it has given the women almost a monopoly on the work whereas the entire military and naval nursing service should be male and we should have enough civilian male nurses to take care of the male patients in civilian hospitals. There is no logic behind this prejudice as a moment's honest consideration will prove. Nevertheless it has served to discourage normal young men from

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Bidding Is Easy for Experienced Player

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

As most experienced players know, it is sometimes advisable to bid one club on a three-card holding in the suit. You are then prepared to make a convenient rebid no matter what response you get from your partner.

This distortion of the bidding should not be carried to extremes. Sooner or later you have to be prepared to bid normally. Failure to return to normalcy led to a disaster in today's hand.

South didn't want to open with one diamond because he wasn't prepared for a possible response of two clubs. There was nothing really wrong with the opening bid of one club.

North hated to pass an opening bid of one club, so made a doubtful response of one diamond. This bid at least had the virtue of indicating a playable trump suit—if South had only listened.

North couldn't keep going indefinitely, so when South failed to make a jump rebid North dropped out at one spade. East's reopening double should have warned South. If South had calmly bid two diamonds, he would have played it there undoubled, for the trifling loss of one or two hundred points.

When South failed to scramble to safety, he delivered himself over to the enemy. West opened a heart, and East properly won a finesse with the ten. East returned the ten of spades, South covered with the king, and West won with the ace.

West tried another heart, and East won with the queen, returning the nine of spades. South won with the queen of spades and hopefully finessed the queen of clubs. East took the king of clubs and shifted to the deuce of diamonds.

By now South was in a panic. He finessed the queen of diamonds, losing to West's king. West now extracted trumps with his jack and eight. A heart to the ace then permitted East to push back the jack of diamonds.

South had to take the ace of diamonds and had no way to return to his hand for the jack of clubs. He had to go over to dummy for the ace of clubs and the ten of diamonds, but then had to give West another heart trick. Down 800 at a bid of only one.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

I don't know how you feel about it, but it is most disheartening to this Vermonter to note the extent to which Republicans are fighting each other.

Are the Republicans trying to defeat themselves again, as they did in 1948?

As a Vermonter, I was particularly disappointed—in fact, to be truthful, I was incensed—at the speech our Vermont senator, Ralph E. Flanders, delivered at the University of Virginia's Institute of Public Affairs last week.

Following the day after Senator Taft had appeared on the program Senator Flanders went 'way overboard in his attack on Taft, asserting "for Taft, it is rule or ruin."

Later in his address Senator Flanders did get around to saying that the Democratic party should be turned out of office. But, obviously, the attention of his audience and the reports in the news papers were centered on his attack on Taft.

What an extraordinary situation!

Here we have a senatorial representative from the only state in the Union that has always voted the Republican ticket going out of his way to violently attack one of the two outstanding candidates for the Republican nomination, simply because he happens to favor General Eisenhower.

The Ruminator can only hope that the senator's friends and well-wishers in his home state of Vermont will remind him when he comes home this summer that we Vermonters do not wish to see the Democrats win the election in November because prominent members of the Republican party do not happen to like one of the candidates.

For me, I'll take the "Old Guard" any time in preference to the New Deal.

For Senator Flanders and other Republican politicians who favor Eisenhower to say that Taft's victory at Chicago "will split and ruin the Republican party" is outright disloyalty to their party. Senator Taft, as everyone knows, is nicknamed "Mr. Republican" which in itself is evidence of the fact that Taft stands unreservedly against the New Deal, the Fair Deal, and the Trumanites.

The greatest danger to the Republican party is not the influence of a few of the "Old Guard" you hear so much about but that there has grown up a large group of Republican New Dealers, who in trying to ride down the middle of the road fall into the ditch every now and then. (I only wish that the University of Virginia speech had been ditched.)

While the Ruminator happens to prefer Taft in the coming campaign—mainly because he believes that only Taft will wage a fight for the election that will make the issues clear-cut—nevertheless he will not be disappointed if Eisenhower is nominated. General Eisenhower's comments since his return from Europe have been acceptable to a large degree, but certainly it is a fallacy to go around the country stating that only the general can save the Republican party. That is utter nonsense. Until a few months ago no one even knew if Eisenhower was a Republican. Many people thought he was a Democrat. There is no question he is an outstanding citizen of great ability, but he will be no savior of the Republican party unless he is willing to battle against the Fair Deal in as forthright a manner as Taft is always ready to do.

The real test of the sincerity of a large group of Republicans will come if Senator Taft happens to win the nomination. If these Republican Taft-attackers sit back with an "I-told-you-so" manner and refuse to help win then you can lay your bets right now that the Democrats will win again.

It will not be a case of "Taft can't win" but a plain situation of Republican self-defeatism.

The Ruminator is not sure, any more than you are, that any Republican can beat the Democrats, but one thing is sure: The Republicans can beat themselves if they continue to make such speeches as Senator Flanders made at Charlottesville, Virginia. All around the country the pro-Eisenhower and pro-Taft workers are spending much of their time attacking each other instead of training their guns on the party they wish to defeat in November.

It may be that all wounds will be healed when the Republican convention is over, but if Senator Taft should win the Ruminator is very much afraid that the pro-Eisenhower groups and the general himself will fail to put up the fight needed to win. However, if Eisenhower wins I think you will find Taft out there fighting for victory of the party in November.

Of course, neither man may win, but one ought to as they are the two candidates wanted by the Republican voters.

UNCLE EF

From the newspaper headlines you'd think that Taft and Eisenhower were campaigning for election as president right now instead of for the Republican Party nomination. Nobody'd better forget there are several million men and women who will vote in November against either one of them.

"AUTOMATIC FIGHTER" HAS NO GUNS—Picto-diagram above shows outstanding features of the radically new Lockheed F-94C Starfire, now in production at Burbank, Calif., and being delivered to the Air Force. The Starfire carries no guns, relying on rockets. It is so nearly automatic that the pilot and radar operator have little else to do but take the plane off the ground, maneuver to the general target area guided by ground radar, switch on the "electronic crew," monitor operation of the piloting and rocket-control apparatus during the attack and then land. The all-weather interceptor is designed for air defense of the United States, with the specific mission of knocking out invading enemy bombers.

Is it time for another Declaration of Independence?

The men who wrote the first one struggled to put new ideas into simple words. Humbly, they tried to set down clearly certain rights of man that could be called God-given, and hard-to-say things of a spiritual nature—truth, equality, freedom.

And the words came alive, and the ideas shone clear. The idea that each man is more important than his government; his independence more precious than his security; his spiritual strength more lasting than his armies.

Upon these ideas, a nation grew great.

There are always people who fear such ideas—even today, even in America. These people feel that man cannot be trusted with his destiny. They are working to make government the master—instead of the servant—of the people.

Their distrust of the individual has spread frighteningly in the past few years.

It can be stopped by ideas—the same ideas spelled out in the Declaration of Independence.

Maybe it's time for all of us, privately and in public, to declare once again our independence—to speak up for freedom, and against anything that threatens it.

The trend toward more and more government controls is a threat to every business, every family, every individual. That's why we bring you this message.

Bidding Is Easy for Experienced Player

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

As most experienced players know, it is sometimes advisable to bid one club on a three-card holding in the suit. You are then prepared to make a convenient rebid no matter what response you get from your partner.

This distortion of the bidding should not be carried to extremes. Sooner or later you have to be prepared to bid normally. Failure to return to normalcy led to a disaster in today's hand.

South didn't want to open with one diamond because he wasn't prepared for a possible response of two clubs. There was nothing really wrong with the opening bid of one club.

North hated to pass an opening bid of one club, so made a doubtful response of one diamond. This bid at least had the virtue of indicating a playable trump suit—if South had only listened.

North couldn't keep going indefinitely, so when South failed to make a jump rebid North dropped out at one spade. East's reopening double should have warned South. If South had calmly bid two diamonds, he would have played it there undoubled, for the trifling loss of one or two hundred points.

When South failed to scramble to safety, he delivered himself over to the enemy. West opened a heart, and East properly won a finesse with the ten. East returned the ten of spades, South covered with the king, and West won with the ace.

West tried another heart, and East won with the queen, returning the nine of spades. South won with the queen of spades and hopefully finessed the queen of clubs. East took the king of clubs and shifted to the deuce of diamonds.

By now South was in a panic. He finessed the queen of diamonds, losing to West's king. West now extracted trumps with his jack and eight. A heart to the ace then permitted East to push back the jack of diamonds.

South had to take the ace of diamonds and had no way to return to his hand for the jack of clubs. He had to go over to dummy for the ace of clubs and the ten of diamonds, but then had to give West another heart trick. Down 800 at a bid of only one.

"AUTOMATIC FIGHTER" HAS NO GUNS—Picto-diagram above shows outstanding features of the radically new Lockheed F-94C Starfire, now in production at Burbank, Calif., and being delivered to the Air Force. The Starfire carries no guns, relying on rockets. It is so nearly automatic that the pilot and radar operator have little else to do but take the plane off the ground, maneuver to the general target area guided by ground radar, switch on the "electronic crew," monitor operation of the piloting and rocket-control apparatus during the attack and then land. The all-weather interceptor is designed for air defense of the United States, with the specific mission of knocking out invading enemy bombers.

Is it time for another Declaration of Independence?

The men who wrote the first one struggled to put new ideas into simple words. Humbly, they tried to set down clearly certain rights of man that could be called God-given, and hard-to-say things of a spiritual nature—truth, equality, freedom.

And the words came alive, and the ideas shone clear. The idea that each man is more important than his government; his independence more precious than his security; his spiritual strength more lasting than his armies.

Upon these ideas, a nation grew great.

There are always people who fear such ideas—even today, even in America. These people feel that man cannot be trusted with his destiny. They are working to make government the master—instead of the servant—of the people.

Their distrust of the individual has spread frighteningly in the past few years.

It can be stopped by ideas—the same ideas spelled out in the Declaration of Independence.

Maybe it's time for all of us, privately and in public, to declare once again our independence—to speak up for freedom, and against anything that threatens it.

The trend toward more and more government controls is a threat to every business, every family, every individual. That's why we bring you this message.

To Arraign Undertaker

New York, July 3 (AP)—A dapper undertaker will be arraigned in Brooklyn today on a New Jersey fugitive charge that led to his arrest as a suspect in the gangland slaying of talkative gambler Willie Moretti. Four detectives from the Brooklyn homicide squad picked up 48-year-old John Robilotto yesterday as he was trying to flag down a taxi. Tight-lipped during hours of police questioning, Robilotto, alias Johnny Roberts, was booked on the fugitive charge and held overnight at Brooklyn police headquarters.

As Pegler Sees It

entering training and played into the hands of cold-eyed old hens who manage organizations of female nurses which are in effect just unions with the monopolistic vices of the teamsters', musicians' and miners' rackets.

As the Norfolk Medical News agrees, there is a great surplus of book-learning in the minimum requirements for training. A nurse has no more need of an AB degree than a waiter has, but the trade has become more and more pretentious and the patient now has to pay for excessive erudition in the female who fluffs up his pillow or administers the routine inconveniences of the bed-bound.

"With the supply of graduate nurses in adequate for the demand," says the Norfolk Medical News, "a price war has been created among hospitals, especially among service, voluntary and municipal institutions. It is disturbing to be confronted by an operating-room supervisor and learn that two of her operating nurses have given notice, one going to the Veterans' Administration, the other to the army. Nurses who leave for the armed services deserve commendation; but we are upset when the Veterans' Administration drains them off by reason of pay differential, to care for non-service connected cases."

The article then says the veterans' hospitals should train their own share of nurses, failing which the registration boards should recognize training schools "offering less than three years' training and lowering admission requirements to less than four years of high school."

Another argument for male nurses is the fact that many young women marry soon after they are capped and drop out for obvious reasons whereas, to a man, marriage is a reason to carry on.

The "South Pacific" version of the nurse was charming, but we overlooked the plain idiocy of a situation, normal to our infatuated psyche, in which we flattered and arched our necks at a babe who would have been quite ordinary back home, because we had been silly enough to send her on a man's errand in war.

$200,000 Fire

New York, July 3 (AP)—A smoky, lacquer-fed blaze caused damage estimated at $200,000 yesterday at three Brooklyn structures housing industrial plants. Yesterday's fire, officials said, started in a spray booth in the second floor quarters of the Preferable Products Co., a lamp manufacturing firm. A spark from a sprayer ignited some lacquer. The flames spread quickly and burned in opposite directions into adjoining buildings on either side of the lamp company.

Liquor Authority Has New Executive

Albany, July 2—Frederick C. Bothwell, Jr., deputy director of the New York State Civil Defense Commission, will become the chief executive officer of the New York State Liquor Authority on September 1, according to an announcement made today by George P. Butterly, Jr., who has been serving in that capacity since October 1, 1951.

The Authority appointed Bothwell at its meeting of June 30. Butterly will return to New York as deputy commissioner in charge of bureaus there effective September 1.

The new chief executive officer is a retired U. S. Army colonel residing at 11 New Woods Road, Glen Cove, Long Island.

He was on continuous active duty as a commissioned officer from his date of graduation at West Point on June 12, 1936, to January 1, 1947, when he retired as colonel with a wartime-incurred physical disability. He was promoted to the grade of colonel in October, 1943, at the age of 30.

He was recipient of a number of United States and allied decorations for valor, including the Order of the British Empire and the Croix de Guerre avec Palme.

Since 1947, he has served as European representative in occupied Germany for several firms.

As Pegler Sees It

entering training and played into the hands of cold-eyed old hens who manage organizations of female nurses which are in effect just unions with the monopolistic vices of the teamsters', musicians' and miners' rackets.

As the Norfolk Medical News agrees, there is a great surplus of book-learning in the minimum requirements for training. A nurse has no more need of an AB degree than a waiter has, but the trade has become more and more pretentious and the patient now has to pay for excessive erudition in the female who fluffs up his pillow or administers the routine inconveniences of the bed-bound.

"With the supply of graduate nurses in adequate for the demand," says the Norfolk Medical News, "a price war has been created among hospitals, especially among service, voluntary and municipal institutions. It is disturbing to be confronted by an operating-room supervisor and learn that two of her operating nurses have given notice, one going to the Veterans' Administration, the other to the army. Nurses who leave for the armed services deserve commendation; but we are upset when the Veterans' Administration drains them off by reason of pay differential, to care for non-service connected cases."

The article then says the veterans' hospitals should train their own share of nurses, failing which the registration boards should recognize training schools "offering less than three years' training and lowering admission requirements to less than four years of high school."

Another argument for male nurses is the fact that many young women marry soon after they are capped and drop out for obvious reasons whereas, to a man, marriage is a reason to carry on.

The "South Pacific" version of the nurse was charming, but we overlooked the plain idiocy of a situation, normal to our infatuated psyche, in which we flattered and arched our necks at a babe who would have been quite ordinary back home, because we had been silly enough to send her on a man's errand in war.

$200,000 Fire

New York, July 3 (AP)—A smoky, lacquer-fed blaze caused damage estimated at $200,000 yesterday at three Brooklyn structures housing industrial plants. Yesterday's fire, officials said, started in a spray booth in the second floor quarters of the Preferable Products Co., a lamp manufacturing firm. A spark from a sprayer ignited some lacquer. The flames spread quickly and burned in opposite directions into adjoining buildings on either side of the lamp company.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Cinema Club Lists Opening Program

Woodstock, July 3—The opening program of art films to be shown at the Maverick Theatre Saturday night will include the remarkable and intimate picture of life in the middle ages, Images Medievales, as well as the Dying Swan danced by the famous ballerina Ulanova, and the experimental work Ballet Mecanique made by the painter, Fernand Leger.

Also on the program will be the dance film Textile Worker. La Lettre, and the allegory Proem. The showing, presented by the Cinema Club of Woodstock, will begin at 8:45 p. m.

Images Medievales was shown last year at the Art Film Festival and was received with such enthusiasm that it is being repeated for the benefit of persons who missed it at that time, or who wish to see it again.

Generally considered to be the finest color art film yet made, it uses illuminated manuscripts of the 14 and 15th centuries to evoke the creation, the work of the peasants, the life and pleasures of the nobility in the court, the tournaments, the violence of medieval warfare, and the daily relaxations of the times, including the pubilc baths. Scenes illustrating the Last Judgment conclude the film. Director-photographer William Novik worked for nearly a year to achieve this film, using originals not much larger than postage stamps.

The Dying Swan presents the famous solo created by Michel Fokine, as danced by the prima ballerina Galina Ulanova, described by Life Magazine as "easily the best of the world's ballerinas." This dance with its lyric and emotional content demonstrates how ballet was given greater freedom from its earlier rigidity and concern with technical brilliance, through the influence of the modern dance pioneer Isadora Duncan, whose work inspired Fokine to break away from the traditional approach. The music is by Saint-Saens.

Time Magazine, describing Ulanova, has said: "For her poetic warmth based on flawless technique, critics lucky enough to have seen her dance rank her with Pavlova."

Other Films

Ballet Mechanique is an amusing and lively film about moving objects, including wine bottles, pistons, swings, ladies' mouths, feet, hats, etc. A pioneering effort by Leger, made nearly 30 years ago, it is still of great interest.

Textile Worker shows an original dance performed in the Uzbek (Hindu-Mongol) folk style by a girl soloist who skillfully and gracefully dances the motions of sewing, weaving, textile machinery and so forth. La Lettre is a striking film on the development of modern painting from Roman times.

Proem using modeling clay as the animating medium, is a fanciful allegory in eight scenes. It has the quality of a nightmarish chess game and has some highly inventive aspects.

Comments Are Given On Rensie Exhibit

Woodstock, July 3—The singular talent of Florine Rensie, whose one-man show of paintings opened Friday at the Town House, might best be described with a comment of Kaj Klitgaard who attended the opening.

"She is completely convincing," said Klitgaard, "when drawing people in action and repose. And her own personality and delightful sense of humor runs through all of these pictures."

Her ability to capture a characteristic and familiar pose is at its best in her amusing presentation of "Art and Mr. Eisner," a view of her husband painting in a variety of styles while a Woodstock tree in the center of the picture remains aloof from it all. Jones Beach reveals another aspect of her gentle sense of fun as does her African Still Life. Chess Players is again extremely human and reposed, and Christie Anne painting evokes a knowing nod from anyone who has watched a small girl painting with a big paint brush.

Florine Rensie is a painter who likes the world she sees around her, and she in turn projects her pleasure in her sincerely composed canvases.

The exhibition will remain at the Town House through July 10.

Creative Paint Class For Children Planned

Woodstock, July 3 — A children's class in creative painting under the direction of Agnes Hart, will be held every Saturday morning throughout the summer, at Parnassus Square, beginning July 5, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. There will be two age groups, one from six to nine, and from 10 to 15.

She formerly taught at Birch Wathen School. Williamsburg Housing Authority, New York, and Anna Maria School, Florida.

Wangler and Alfred Nussbaum, delegates; Henry Grazier and William Klippel, alternate delegates.

Correct Flag Display Is Asked by Legion

Woodstock, July 3 — At the last meeting of Woodstock Post 1026, it was observed that during the past year, the American flag has been improperly displayed in public places — especially during inclement weather and at night. The members moved that a notification of correct flag display be published.

The Flag of the United States of America should not be displayed on days when the weather is inclement, or at night, Sec. 2 (C) Flag Law.

The only instances where a flag properly flies during inclement weather are: 1 — Two flags over the Capitol Building, Washington, D. C., one over the east front and one over the west front, day and night throughout the year. 2—Over a permanent fort or ship when engaged in battle. 3—When our armed forces are engaged in battle.

The local Legion post kindly asks that the townspeople heed this regulation and thereby show their reverent respect for the flag of the United States.

The Ganso Gallery, located in the Guild building, will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m.

No Reiner School

Woodstock, July 3—After two summers in this village, Mrs. Norma Reiner has announced with regret that she will not reopen the Reiner School for Creative Music this summer. Mrs. Reiner has completed a heavy teaching schedule in New York where she was on the staff of three music schools, and now plans to take a much needed vacation. She also plans to devote considerable time to her new home in Great Neck, L. I. She hopes that in the not too distant future she will be able to carry on her work in pre-instrument training and "fun with music," in Woodstock.

Health for All

Varicose Veins

People go to the doctor for a variety of reasons, the most common, of course, being pain and discomfort. Sometimes the motive is primarily one of vanity.

For example, more people are checking with their doctors these days at the first appearance of varicose veins.

For varicose legs are unattractive, with their enlarged, bluish veins swelling above the surface of the skin, sometimes in lumpy masses. Varicose veins, enlarged veins whose walls have lost their elasticity, may occur anywhere in the body, but they are most common in the legs.

There is a reason why the legs are affected most frequently. When a person is standing, blood pressure in the long veins of the legs is increased and the longer a person stands, the greater the strain on the leg veins. Policemen, waitresses, salespeople — those who stand motionless a great deal of the time—frequently suffer from varicose veins.

The function of veins throughout the human body is to carry the blood back to the heart. Most of these veins are equipped with valves which keep the blood from flowing back or settling in the veins. When the valves no longer function properly because of injury or disease, blood that should be circulating becomes a stagnant pool in the vein and a "varicose vein" results.

Varicose veins are rarely fatal. But if they are neglected, they get progressively worse and cause the sufferer more and more pain. Anyone who suspects the veins of his legs are enlarging, whether or not there is pain, should see his doctor without delay. Prompt medical treatment will bring the patient relief, probably help correct his varicose conditions, and help ward off more serious complications of varicose veins, like ulceration and bleeding.

As far as we know, varicose veins cannot be prevented, but certain precautions can be taken against their development. Tight, circular garters which constrict the veins of the leg should be avoided. Overweight, which places a strain on other parts of the body, also puts an extra burden on the leg veins and their delicate valves and hence should be avoided. Those whose work calls for standing a great deal should get off their feet for short periods as frequently as possible.

Varicose veins are common, but they should never be regarded lightly. Besides the pain and discomfort they cause in the region of the legs, they constitute a hindrance to normal circulation. The doctor is the best person to treat this detriment to health and personal appearance.

Cinema Club Lists Opening Program

Woodstock, July 3—The opening program of art films to be shown at the Maverick Theatre Saturday night will include the remarkable and intimate picture of life in the middle ages, Images Medievales, as well as the Dying Swan danced by the famous ballerina Ulanova, and the experimental work Ballet Mecanique made by the painter, Fernand Leger.

Also on the program will be the dance film Textile Worker. La Lettre, and the allegory Proem. The showing, presented by the Cinema Club of Woodstock, will begin at 8:45 p. m.

Images Medievales was shown last year at the Art Film Festival and was received with such enthusiasm that it is being repeated for the benefit of persons who missed it at that time, or who wish to see it again.

Generally considered to be the finest color art film yet made, it uses illuminated manuscripts of the 14 and 15th centuries to evoke the creation, the work of the peasants, the life and pleasures of the nobility in the court, the tournaments, the violence of medieval warfare, and the daily relaxations of the times, including the pubilc baths. Scenes illustrating the Last Judgment conclude the film. Director-photographer William Novik worked for nearly a year to achieve this film, using originals not much larger than postage stamps.

The Dying Swan presents the famous solo created by Michel Fokine, as danced by the prima ballerina Galina Ulanova, described by Life Magazine as "easily the best of the world's ballerinas." This dance with its lyric and emotional content demonstrates how ballet was given greater freedom from its earlier rigidity and concern with technical brilliance, through the influence of the modern dance pioneer Isadora Duncan, whose work inspired Fokine to break away from the traditional approach. The music is by Saint-Saens.

Time Magazine, describing Ulanova, has said: "For her poetic warmth based on flawless technique, critics lucky enough to have seen her dance rank her with Pavlova."

Other Films

Ballet Mechanique is an amusing and lively film about moving objects, including wine bottles, pistons, swings, ladies' mouths, feet, hats, etc. A pioneering effort by Leger, made nearly 30 years ago, it is still of great interest.

Textile Worker shows an original dance performed in the Uzbek (Hindu-Mongol) folk style by a girl soloist who skillfully and gracefully dances the motions of sewing, weaving, textile machinery and so forth. La Lettre is a striking film on the development of modern painting from Roman times.

Proem using modeling clay as the animating medium, is a fanciful allegory in eight scenes. It has the quality of a nightmarish chess game and has some highly inventive aspects.

Comments Are Given On Rensie Exhibit

Woodstock, July 3—The singular talent of Florine Rensie, whose one-man show of paintings opened Friday at the Town House, might best be described with a comment of Kaj Klitgaard who attended the opening.

"She is completely convincing," said Klitgaard, "when drawing people in action and repose. And her own personality and delightful sense of humor runs through all of these pictures."

Her ability to capture a characteristic and familiar pose is at its best in her amusing presentation of "Art and Mr. Eisner," a view of her husband painting in a variety of styles while a Woodstock tree in the center of the picture remains aloof from it all. Jones Beach reveals another aspect of her gentle sense of fun as does her African Still Life. Chess Players is again extremely human and reposed, and Christie Anne painting evokes a knowing nod from anyone who has watched a small girl painting with a big paint brush.

Florine Rensie is a painter who likes the world she sees around her, and she in turn projects her pleasure in her sincerely composed canvases.

The exhibition will remain at the Town House through July 10.

Creative Paint Class For Children Planned

Woodstock, July 3 — A children's class in creative painting under the direction of Agnes Hart, will be held every Saturday morning throughout the summer, at Parnassus Square, beginning July 5, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. There will be two age groups, one from six to nine, and from 10 to 15.

Agnes Hart, New York and Woodstock painter, has exhibited in American Painting Today at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Academy, the Pennsylvania Academy, the Chicago Art Institute, the Toledo Museum, and has held one man shows in New York and Woodstock.

She formerly taught at Birch Wathen School, Williamsburg Housing Authority, New York, and Anna Maria School, Florida.

Nussbaum Named New Legion Head

Woodstock, July 3—Officers for the coming year were elected at the last meeting of the American Legion Post 1026. They are as follows: G. Alfred Nussbaum, commander; Irwin Holumzer, first vice-commander; John Wolven, second vice-commander; David Dodd, third vice-commander; Robert Nussbaum, adjutant; William MacReady, service officer; John Peper, finance officer; Alfred Moore, chaplain; Paul Joyce, sergeant at arms; Richard Thibaut, Jr., historian; Albert M. Wangler and Alfred Nussbaum, delegates; Henry Grazier and William Klippel, alternate delegates.

It was decided that meeting nights would be changed from the last Wednesday to the last Thursday of the month. The next meeting will be held July 31.

Correct Flag Display Is Asked by Legion

Woodstock, July 3 — At the last meeting of Woodstock Post 1026, it was observed that during the past year, the American flag has been improperly displayed in public places — especially during inclement weather and at night. The members moved that a notification of correct flag display be published.

The Flag of the United States of America should not be displayed on days when the weather is inclement, or at night, Sec. 2 (C) Flag Law.

The only instances where a flag properly flies during inclement weather are: 1 — Two flags over the Capitol Building, Washington, D. C., one over the east front and one over the west front, day and night throughout the year. 2—Over a permanent fort or ship when engaged in battle. 3—When our armed forces are engaged in battle.

The local Legion post kindly asks that the townspeople heed this regulation and thereby show their reverent respect for the flag of the United States.

Woodstock, July 3—According to instructions received from the Air Force, the Woodstock air observation post, located at the Woodstock School, will be manned on a 24 hour basis, beginning Monday, July 14, Joseph Forno, director of Civilian Defense of the township of Woodstock, has urgently requested the complete assistance of all civic and business organizations in this village in recruiting air observers. No Reiner School

Woodstock, July 3—After two summers in this village, Mrs. Norma Reiner has announced with regret that she will not reopen the Reiner School for Creative Music this summer. Mrs. Reiner has completed a heavy teaching schedule in New York where she was on the staff of three music schools, and now plans to take a much needed vacation. She also plans to devote considerable time to her new home in Great Neck, L. I. She hopes that in the not too distant future she will be able to carry on her work in pre-instrument training and "fun with music," in Woodstock.

Health for All

Varicose Veins

People go to the doctor for a variety of reasons, the most common, of course, being pain and discomfort. Sometimes the motive is primarily one of vanity.

For example, more people are checking with their doctors these days at the first appearance of varicose veins.

For varicose legs are unattractive, with their enlarged, bluish veins swelling above the surface of the skin, sometimes in lumpy masses. Varicose veins, enlarged veins whose walls have lost their elasticity, may occur anywhere in the body, but they are most common in the legs.

There is a reason why the legs are affected most frequently. When a person is standing, blood pressure in the long veins of the legs is increased and the longer a person stands, the greater the strain on the leg veins. Policemen, waitresses, salespeople — those who stand motionless a great deal of the time—frequently suffer from varicose veins.

The function of veins throughout the human body is to carry the blood back to the heart. Most of these veins are equipped with valves which keep the blood from flowing back or settling in the veins. When the valves no longer function properly because of injury or disease, blood that should be circulating becomes a stagnant pool in the vein and a "varicose vein" results.

Varicose veins are rarely fatal. But if they are neglected, they get progressively worse and cause the sufferer more and more pain. Anyone who suspects the veins of his legs are enlarging, whether or not there is pain, should see his doctor without delay. Prompt medical treatment will bring the patient relief, probably help correct his varicose conditions, and help ward off more serious complications of varicose veins, like ulceration and bleeding.

As far as we know, varicose veins cannot be prevented, but certain precautions can be taken against their development. Tight, circular garters which constrict the veins of the leg should be avoided. Overweight, which places a strain on other parts of the body, also puts an extra burden on the leg veins and their delicate valves and hence should be avoided. Those whose work calls for standing a great deal should get off their feet for short periods as frequently as possible.

Varicose veins are common, but they should never be regarded lightly. Besides the pain and discomfort they cause in the region of the legs, they constitute a hindrance to normal circulation. The doctor is the best person to treat this detriment to health and personal appearance.

Claim Is Rejected

New York, July 3 (AP) — The New York city government has rejected a $300,000 damage claim by jailed bank robber Willie Sutton's girl friend, Margaret Mary Moore. Miss Moore was held 42 days as a material witness after Sutton was captured earlier this year. During her detention, she charges, the city failed to provide medical treatment for an eye ailment, causing it to get worse. After a hearing, city officials announced yesterday that her claim had been turned down. Miss Moore may pursue her claim in courts.

Pay Raise Granted

New York, July 3 (AP)—A total of 7,045 employes of the Long Island Rail Road started receiving an additional cost of living two-cent hourly pay raise on Tuesday, it was announced today by the line. The pay boost is geared to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index. The railroad said the increases will cost about $365,000 yearly, including extra pay roll taxes.

Opens Woodstock Shop

Matthew Hudela, who has had more than 50 years experience in tailoring in Europe, Long Island and New Jersey, has just opened a tailoring and furrier shop on the Woodstock-Saugerties road in Woodstock a short distance from Deanie's Restaurant. A two-car garage in the rear of the former Terwilliger property has been completely remodeled to accommodate the shop.

Kingston Booklet Will Be Offered By Scouts Tonight

Kingston Boy Scouts, will stage a whirlwind coverage of Kingston this evening for the purpose of offering all citizens the opportunity to secure a copy of the Kingston Tercentennial historical booklet. Sales of this souvenir book have been unusually heavy among out-of-town visitors and former residents. As a consequence, the anniversary committee feels that local citizens may not have the opportunity of securing a copy before they are exhausted and has therefore accepted the offer of the Boy Scouts to make them readily available on a door-to-door basis.

In a memorandum to all Boy Scout unit leaders of the Kingston District, Sam Trull, district chairman, and Frank Bourke, district commissioner, of the Rip Van Winkle Council, jointly state, "Every citizen of Ulster county is very conscious of Kingston's 300th Anniversary being conducted this year. This celebration is underlaid with a very deep spiritual and patriotic motive. One of the most important parts of the celebration is the distribution of the historical booklets published for the occasion. These booklets will be a reminder for years to come to our citizens of the things we are now celebrating. Incidentally, the sale of these booklets will contribute a small share of the cost of conducting the entire celebration program. This is a non-profit, civic effort conducted by and for the citizens of Kingston.

"Here is a grand opportunity for us to do a local good turn, and to help out with a very important part of the 300th Anniversary."

The booklet, written and compiled by an editorial staff headed by Miss Agnes Scott Smith and Herbert Lloyd Shultz, represents about six months of intensive research which uncovered many unknown facts and as many never before published photographs bearing the history of Kingston from 1652 to the present. As a source book-editorially and pictorially covering the rich heritage of Kingston today, it is an excellent memento of this memorable anniversary year and is already assuming the proportions of a collectors' item. It is the only publication in print today which covers Kingston's history. All other publications, such as Schoonmaker's and Clearwater's histories have been unavailable for years except for an occasional copy which turns up at an estate auction, and which always commands a price far in excess of the original publication price.

First public advertisement of coffee was on May 27, 1657, in London's "Publick Adviser," popular newspaper of the day.

Paltz College Holds Family Life Institute

Noted Authorities Discuss Matriage Problems

Noted authorities presented their views on marriage problems, family goals, and others, during the Family Life Institute which concluded Saturday at the New Paltz State Teachers College. Dr. Abraham Stone, Judge Anna M. Kross, and Dr. Grace Baker were among those who contributed to the theme, What Price Families.

As two of the participants left the last session of the Family Life Institute at the New Paltz State University Teachers College Saturday, one remarked to the other: "Let's keep in touch, so we will know how what we've learned here this week has helped us in our own family life."

Thought Stimulant

After six days of discussion, study and talks by experts in the field of family life, the student group composed of parents, teachers and others returned to their homes in scattered communities in this area. The 1952 theme of the institute, What Price Families?, had produced many stimulating answers to the questions, what goals are families seeking, and how can they achieve them?

Widely-known authorities like Doctor Abraham Stone, author of the popular Marriage Manual; Judge Anna M. Kross, presiding magistrate of the Home Term court, an experimental court in Manhattan set up exclusively for the handling of family problems; and Dr. Grace Baker, consulting psychiatrist for Mills college, spoke to the group.

Ingredients for Happy Marriage

What makes for a happy marriage? Dr. Stone stressed four major qualifications at the Thursday session. A close companionship between husband and wife, similar attitudes towards sex and the establishment of a home and family are three important factors.

Sufficient economic means to insure the fulfillment of the first three qualifications is a very necessary fourth, he pointed out, and the arrangements for achieving that economic balance should exist by common agreement.

Thus, while it is necessary in some cases for the wife to work outside the home to maintain economic security and in others it is not, all such decisions should be made to the satisfaction of both husband and wife, Dr. Stone said.

India Set-up

A family set-up which differs vastly from our own was described by Dr. Stone in a public session Thursday evening. Dr. Stone has recently returned from helping to initiate planned parenthood clinics in five major provinces of India under the auspices of the World Health Organization and the Indian government.

Ten or more children are the rule in India where families live on a communal basis, sons remaining under the parental roof with their wives and children. The oldest man is the absolute head of the family, and little open companionship exists between husband and wife. Men and women are rarely seen together in the streets, Dr. Stone reported.

The status of the new bride, whose marriage is usually arranged by her family, increases when she has borne children, usually by the time she is 16. The male child is considered most desirable, possibly, Dr. Stone claimed, because of the large dowry which must accompany every daughter when she marries.

With the rapid eradication of cholera, plague and typhoid and the resultant decrease in the death rate, India's population has been increasing at the rate of four million a year. Unable to produce an adequate food supply for her ever-expanding population, India looks for a solution in the control of large families, Dr. Stone said.

His job was to determine how best to spread information through clinics on the rhythm method of birth control and to set up pilot studies on its effectiveness.

Judge Kross Voices Alarm ..

Judge Anna M. Kross, speaking from her many years of experience in rehabilitating and helping families who appear before her Home Court in New York city, told the institute gathering Wednesday that she was alarmed at the increasing number of families appearing before courts and other agencies who find themselves in extreme distress and difficulty.

Judge Kross urged emphasis on the family as a unit rather than on the child alone in homes, churches and schools, to help stem the tide of disorganization in the family.

She felt that the most immediate need for Americans today was to learn to respect differences of opinion in others.

"We must have peace in the family to have peace in the world," Judge Kross declared.

Tolerance as Goal

Dr. Grace Baker, consulting psychiatrist, also emphasized tolerance as a goal for happy family life. Understanding the behavior of the members of one's family instead of condemning it is a major factor, she claimed.

After discussions of the problems and pitfalls that endanger happy family life today, and a summarization of the opinions of speakers and institute students, these conclusions were reached:

Participants felt that the goal, a happy family, was difficult to achieve, but undeniably worthwhile. They urged more widespread awareness of the needs and problems of the family.

Educate for Marriage

Families, schools and churches, they decided, should educate children for marriage and parenthood so that young people face responsibilities realistically and counselling services for young people before marriage and for martial and parental problems should be more available.

Directors of the institute were Dr. Eugene Link, chairman of the social science division of the college, and Mrs. Link. Other members of the college faculty who acted as lecturers and group chairmen were Dr. Dorothy Hayes, Mrs. Ruth Coon and Nathan Stillman. Mrs. Brita Walker, art supervisor of the Arlington public schools, participated in a discussion of family activities.

Kingston Day Unit

A special executive meeting of the Kingston Day Unit of the Home Bureau took place in the Broadway rooms on Tuesday afternoon, to arrange a program for the ensuing year.

Plans indicate interesting meetings and Mrs. Robert J. Hudler, newly elected chairman, expressed a hope for record attendances.

Mrs. Rufus Whitney, hostesses chairman, presented a tentative list of hostesses. Mrs. Henry Gronemeyer and Mrs. Clifford Donohue, members of the nominating committee, prepared a list of tentative leaders to take instructions for new projects.

Mrs. Jacob Meyers, chairman of photography, took pictures of the executive staff for the scrapbook which is in charge of Mrs. Gronemeyer.

A request was made for members with artics made during the past year, to exhibit them in the booth at the Ulster county fair, August 20 and 21.

Stalin's Secret Army—3

possible, these persons are caught young.

Persons with grievances against the world—those who consider themselves or their race or their creed to be persecuted—are singled out for special attention and often become easy victims. Disillusionment hits these people hard when it comes.

"I considered myself a second-class Canadian, not a first class Canadian," testified one agent in the Canadian case. "That is not a laughing matter, Mr. Commissioner. It is serious."

That played a large part in this agent's motivation. But there are other motives. The files of prospects in Moscow contain careful entries on personal habits, ambitions, attitudes to families, characteristics of private life and even inclination to drink hard liquor. A man who is financially insecure may be persuaded to take money. If he does, he quickly becomes "nash," the Russian word for "ours."

Gradually the recruits are imbued with a sense of a secret mission, a sense of conspiracy which sets them apart from their fellows. The cell carefully develops the secrecy habit. Gradually it works to make the prospect doubt the need of honesty and loyalty to his own community. Ultimately, the prospect comes to believe that anybody expressing such sentiments is guilty of "petty bourgeois morality" or some other jargonistic Communist sin, pronounced with a superior sneer.

It Criticizes West

The "study groups" are induced to study political and philosophical works highly critical of western democracy—not necessarily, as yet, Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin. These works come at a later stage. First the sense of oneness with the Soviet Union must be inculcated. The "student" must be imbued with the idea that in working for Moscow he is working for humanity.

The Communist party makes prime targets of organizations which can be helpful to it. The object is to seize control of such organizations as those devoted to civil liberties, to trade union work, to youth, to women's interests, to peace and a variety of other things. Once in control, the party can use the organization as a recruitment and operations base, unknown to the bulk of the membership.

Aside from capturing existing organizations wherever possible, the party also forms its own front organizations, retaining strict control over them and using them for propaganda and other purposes.

There is a system of interlocking directorates among such organizations which gives the party certain continuity of action. Party members in controlling positions in one organization are likely to hold top positions in other front groups.

Once the cells have completed the basic program of "development" with their prospective fifth columnists, the second stage is reached. That brings a transfer of loyalty to the Soviet Union, blind obedience to the party, devotion to the "cause." This is a gradual process, too. The prospects gets small doses. He takes only as much as he can swallow. His capacity becomes greater and greater as he becomes more and more enmeshed in secrecy and conspiracy. He acquires the psychology of a double life and a double standard, and the moral principles he once knew are displaced. He still believes he is working for mankind, but now the good of mankind and the Soviet Union are becoming synonymous.

Thus Klaus Fuchs, the brilliant atomic scientist, said in his confession in Britain:

"I used my Marxian philosophy to conceal my thoughts, which had to be separated into two compartments. One side was the man I wanted to be. I could be free and easy and happy with other people without fear of disclosing myself, because I knew the other compartment would step in if I reached a danger point. It appeared to me at the time that I had become a free man because I succeeded in the other compartment of my mind in establishing myself completely independent of the surrounding forces of society."

Thus Dr. Alan Nunn May, caught up in the Soviet spy network in Canada, pleaded in court: "I did it for the good of mankind."

Thus Harry Gold, convicted Communist spy courier between Fuchs and Russian agents, described himself tearfully as "an idealist."

Thus Swedish spy Johan Fritiof Enbom is quoted as telling associates: "We may be caught. In that case we will be imprisoned for treason and looked upon by all Swedes as traitors. Besides, the Communist party will feel that we have let them down. But on the other hand, when the Russians have won the war, as they most certainly will, then we will be liberated and be given jobs paying at least 50,000 Swedish kronor ($10,000) a year."

For Fuchs, Gold and May, it was a matter of persuading themselves that they were working for the good of humanity under a system of life which had made fanatics of them. Money was secondary. For young Enbom, it was not the immediate reward, but the dream of future power and glory under a system in which he would be a pioneer in his own country. Dreams of future power and glory motivated many a traitor, recruited many a Soviet spy.

The stories of the penitents—people such as Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers who left the Communist Fifth Column, ring with the idea that they thought they were working for humankind — until disillusionment set in. Then such people remain only if kept in line by threats and blackmail.

Institute Speaker Sees Unmilitary Factors in Big Role

Annandale-on-Hudson, July 3—The ultimate decision in the struggle between the U. S. and the U. S. S. R., which now appears to have reached a stalemate in Europe and Asia, will be determined more by moral and ideological factors than by economic or military considerations, Vera Micheles Dean of the Foreign Policy Association, stated in an address Wednesday before the 20th annual conference of the Summer Institute for Social Progress being held at Bard College. Mrs. Dean spoke on the "U. S. S. R. and U. S. A. Balance Sheet of Power."

"The most important asset of the United States in the ideological balance sheet is our belief in human freedom. This Russia cannot take away from us," Mrs. Dean declared, "nor can Russia whittle it down. We alone can dissipate this asset if, through fear of communism, we permit encroachment on the basic freedoms we are struggling to defend in Europe and Korea." The problem for Americans, she said, is to strengthen and improve free institutions in the United States to set an example.

"Russia's most important asset is the appeal it makes to underdeveloped countries," Mrs. Dean pointed out. She also stated that while Asians were not eager to follow the Russian pattern, some of the economic practices being introduced by Chinese and Russian Communists were considered by them to be "closer to their immediate needs than those of advanced Western industrial nations."

The conference speakers today are Telford Taylor, administrator, Small War Plants Commission, and Hugh Keenleyside, administrator, UN Technical Assistance Program.

All Five City League Clubs Tied for First After Dairymen Cop, 3-2

Tommy Fisher and Nippy Jones Play Vital Roles in Win Over Wiltwycks

Maybe it happened before and maybe it didn't.

Veteran railbirds of City League baseball play are of the opinion that the latter is probably correct.

Anyway you look at it, the fact that all five City League teams are deadlocked in a first place tie is quite an unusual picture.

Well, that's the story this morning following Wednesday night's fray at the Athletic Field where Jones Dairy, a slow starter this year, threw the standings into a five-team tie for the top position by scoring a 3 to 2 squeaker victory over the front-running Wiltwyck Motors.

The only pity of it all was that only a fair sized crowd was in the stands to watch this second overtime finish of the week.

Tied up after the regular seven innings of play, the Dairymen shoved over the deciding marker in the bottom of the eighth when Tommy Maines walked, went to second on Charlie Neff's bunt and romped home on Nippy Jones' one-baser to center.

Next Game Sunday

City League clubs will practically start from scratch Sunday night with Wiltwyck Motors engaging Boulevard Gulf.

Tommy Fisher, veteran league hurler, received credit for the Jones' victory last night on the strength of his air-tight relief hurling. Fisher took over for Joe Modica in the fifth and proceeded to whitewash the Motormen without a hit or run in three and a thirds innings. It was Fisher's second win in relief. Bud Finn, who went the distance for the losers, was tagged with the loss.

The Dairymen pushed over single counters in the first and third and held a 2-0 edge until Wiltwyck's knotted up the count with a two-run outburst in the fifth. It remained 2-2 until Jones' single in the eighth inning.

A couple of walks to "Daisy" Schatzel and Mauro, a passed ball and a throwing error by Pitcher Finn gave Jones the first run in the opening stanza. Tommy Carlino opened the winners' third with a single, pilfered second and after going to third on a bad peg by the catcher, stalked home when Charlie Neff stroked a single.

A two-out rally featured the Motormen's splurge in the fifth. Four singles by J. Minadee, A. Passante, Finn and J. Passante produced the tying runs and sent Modica to the showers. Fisher came on and didn't help the picture too much when he conked Trapani with a pitch ball to load the sacks. The veteran Fisher, however, settled down and whiffed Murphy to end the uprising.

Fisher, in picking up the win, breezed through Wiltwycks until his mates knocked over the winning run. After hitting Trapani in the fifth, no other Wiltwyck batter reached base.

League to Continue

Following last night's thriller, league managers and officials convened and reviewed the league picture to date and voted to continue the schedule as planned. However, league moguls went on record requesting more support from local baseball fans. As one official put it, "our troubles would be very meagre indeed if only we had the support of the fans."

Scores Bidding

Estes Park, Colo., July 3 (AP)—Backing up collegiate athletic sanitary codes, the National Federation of State Hign School Athletic Associations says competitive bidding for young stars is harmful both to boys and to amateur athletics. The federation yesterday adopted a strongly worded resolution condemning try-outs and bidding by institutions of higher learning. It termed it "unethical, unprofessional and psychologically harmful."

Tries Catalina Feat

Avalon, Calif., July 3 (AP)—Florence Chadwick, two-time conqueror of the English Channel, is poised to tackle "my roughest swim" — the choppy Catalina Channel—tonight. The 32-year-old San Diego churner is scheduled to plunge into the unquiet Pacific about 9 p. m. (11 p. m., eastern standard time) when the waters are expected to be moderately ruly.

ROUGH TRIP HOME

Philadelphia right fielder Mel Clark sprawls over the outstretched leg of Dodger catcher Roy Campanella as he scores a run for the Phillies in sixth inning of game at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn. Clark had tripled and came home on Del Ennis' fly to center fielder Duke Snider. Connie Ryan (8), Phillies' next batter, watches the play. Philadelphia downed Brooklyn, 4-3.

Torgy and Yvars Fined by Giles

Boston, July 3 (AP)—Boston Braves' right fielder Earl Torgeson drew a fine of $100 today for his clash in Tuesday night's game with New York Giants' catcher Sal Yvars.

Yvars drew a $25 fine for his part in the conflict.

The fines were levied by National League President Warren C. Giles.

Besides the fines, Giles suggested that Torgeson, who slugged Yvars in the Giants' dugout after the catcher had broken his bat, apologize to Yvars. Before the bat breaking, Yvars had complained that Torgeson was hitting him on the shins with the backswing of his bat.

Phils Playing .667 Baseball Since Club Changed Managers

Roberts, Russ Meyer Stop Brooks Twice

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Fatherly Steve O'Neill has discarded Eddie Sawyer's austerity program and replaced it with a more popular plan that appears to be putting new life into Philadelphia's awakening whiz kids.

Since the 61-year-old O'Neill took over as Philadelphia manager last Saturday, the Phils have won four out of six from Brooklyn and New York, the top two clubs in the National League. That's .667 baseball. Under Sawyer, the Phils won 28 and lost 35 for a .444 percentage.

Wise old Steve refuses to take the credit but in his first meeting with his new team he told the players all of Sawyer's austerity program, except the curfew, was out. There was to be a midnight and 2 a. m. deadline for day and night games but the players could have cars, cards, wives, golf clubs and swim suits with them.

Brilliant pitching by Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer plus timely hitting by outfielders Bill Nicholson and Mel Clark gave the Phils a sweep of their doubleheader with Brooklyn, 5-3 and 2-1, and three wins in the four-game series.

The double defeat cut the Dodgers' first place margin to three games over the Giants who lost a grand opportunity to pick up more ground by dropping a 2-1 decision to the Boston Braves.

Cards Are Hot

Cleveland's Indians picked up a full game on the front-running New York Yankees, taking their second straight from the Browns, 3-2, while the Boston Red Sox were beating the champions, 5-4. Chicago's White Sox nipped Detroit, 3-2 and Philadelphia's Athletics dropped Washington into fifth place with a 4-1 triumph over the Senators.

Chicago's Cubs solidified their hold on third place in the National, pasting a pair of defeats upon Pittsburgh, 8-3 and 3-0.

Harry Brecheen pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds for their 12th victory in the last 16 games. Enos Slaughter continued his batting rampage, driving in all St. Louis runs in the eighth with a bases-loaded double.

A home run by pinch hitter Bill Nicholson following a walk to Connie Ryan in the eighth gave the Phils the nightcap win after Roberts had registered his 11th triumph with a six-hitter in the opener.

Benton Stops Yankees

A home run beat the Giants. The blow was delivered by rookie Jack Dittmer following a two-out single by Johnny Logan in the eighth. It was the kid infielder's first major league four-bagger and gave Warren Spahn his seventh triumph.

Perfect relief pitching by 41-year-old Alton Benton helped the Red Sox grab the rubber of the three-game set with the Yankees in New York. He stemmed a threat in the seventh and retired seven Yankees in a row to safeguard Sid Hudson's 5-4 lead.

Shantz Wins 14th

A pinch single by Barney McCosky drove in Dale Mitchell with the run that gave the Indians a 10-inning triumph over the Browns. McCosky hit for Joe Tipton with one out and the bases loaded.

Minnie Minoso slammed a sixth inning home run to give the White Sox their 3-2 win over the Tigers.

Bobby Shantz chalked up his 14th victory against two defeats, limiting the Senators to four hits. A sixth inning home run to outfielder Jackie Jensen deprived the little Philadelphia lefthander from hurling a shutout.

All Five City League Clubs Tied for First After Dairymen Cop, 3-2

Tommy Fisher and Nippy Jones Play Vital Roles in Win Over Wiltwycks

Maybe it happened before and maybe it didn't.

Veteran railbirds of City League baseball play are of the opinion that the latter is probably correct.

Anyway you look at it, the fact that all five City League teams are deadlocked in a first place tie is quite an unusual picture.

Well, that's the story this morning following Wednesday night's fray at the Athletic Field where Jones Dairy, a slow starter this year, thew the standings into a five-team tie for the top position by scoring a 3 to 2 squeaker victory over the front-running Wiltwyck Motors.

The only pity of it all was that only a fair sized crowd was in the stands to watch this second overtime finish of the week.

Tied up after the regular seven innings of play, the Dairymen shoved over the deciding marker in the bottom of the eighth when Tommy Maines walked, went to second on Charlie Neff's bunt and romped home on Nippy Jones' one-baser to center.

Next Game Sunday

City League clubs will practically start from scratch Sunday night with Wiltwyck Motors engaging Boulevard Gulf.

Tommy Fisher, veteran league hurler, received credit for the Jones' victory last night on the strength of his air-tight relief hurling. Fisher took over for Joe Modica in the fifth and proceeded to whitewash the Motormen without a hit or run in three and a thirds innings. It was Fisher's second win in relief. Bud Finn, who went the distance for the losers, was tagged with the loss.

The Dairymen pushed over single counters in the first and third and held a 2-0 edge until Wiltwyck's knotted up the count with a two-run outburst in the fifth. It remained 2-2 until Jones' single in the eighth inning.

A couple of walks to "Daisy" Schatzel and Mauro, a passed ball and a throwing error by Pitcher Finn gave Jones the first run in the opening stanza. Tommy Carlino opened the winners' third with a single, pilfered second and after going to third on a bad peg by the catcher, stalked home when Charlie Neff stroked a single.

A two-out rally featured the Motormen's splurge in the fifth. Four singles by J. Minadee, A. Passante, Finn and J. Passante produced the tying runs and sent Modica to the showers. Fisher came on and didn't help the picture too much when he conked Trapani with a pitch ball to load the sacks. The veteran Fisher, however, settled down and whiffed Murphy to end the uprising.

Fisher, in picking up the win, breezed through Wiltwycks until his mates knocked over the winning run. After hitting Trapani in the fifth, no other Wiltwyck batter reached base.

League to Continue

Following last night's thriller, league managers and officials convened and reviewed the league picture to date and voted to continue the schedule as planned. However, league moguls went on record requesting more support from local baseball fans. As one official put it, "our troubles would be very meagre indeed if only we had the support of the fans."

Scores Bidding

Estes Park, Colo., July 3 (AP)—Backing up collegiate athletic sanitary codes, the National Federation of State Hign School Athletic Associations says competitive bidding for young stars is harmful both to boys and to amateur athletics. The federation yesterday adopted a strongly worded resolution condemning try-outs and bidding by institutions of higher learning. It termed it "unethical, unprofessional and psychologically harmful."

Avalon, Calif., July 3 (AP)—Florence Chadwick, two-time conqueror of the English Channel, is poised to tackle "my roughest swim" — the choppy Catalina Channel—tonight. The 32-year-old San Diego churner is scheduled to plunge into the unquiet Pacific about 9 p. m. (11 p. m., eastern standard time) when the waters are expected to be moderately ruly.

ROUGH TRIP HOME

Philadelphia right fielder Mel Clark sprawls over the outstretched leg of Dodger catcher Roy Campanella as he scores a run for the Phillies in sixth inning of game at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn. Clark had tripled and came home on Del Ennis' fly to center fielder Duke Snider. Connie Ryan (8), Phillies' next batter, watches the play. Philadelphia downed Brooklyn, 4-3.

Torgy and Yvars Fined by Giles

Boston, July 3 (AP)—Boston Braves' right fielder Earl Torgeson drew a fine of $100 today for his clash in Tuesday night's game with New York Giants' catcher Sal Yvars.

Yvars drew a $25 fine for his part in the conflict.

The fines were levied by National League President Warren C. Giles.

Besides the fines, Giles suggested that Torgeson, who slugged Yvars in the Giants' dugout after the catcher had broken his bat, apologize to Yvars. Before the bat breaking, Yvars had complained that Torgeson was hitting him on the shins with the backswing of his bat.

Phils Playing .667 Baseball Since Club Changed Managers

Roberts, Russ Meyer Stop Brooks Twice

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Fatherly Steve O'Neill has discarded Eddie Sawyer's austerity program and replaced it with a more popular plan that appears to be putting new life into Philadelphia's awakening whiz kids.

Since the 61-year-old O'Neill took over as Philadelphia manager last Saturday, the Phils have won four out of six from Brooklyn and New York, the top two clubs in the National League. That's .667 baseball. Under Sawyer, the Phils won 28 and lost 35 for a .444 percentage.

Wise old Steve refuses to take the credit but in his first meeting with his new team he told the players all of Sawyer's austerity program, except the curfew, was out. There was to be a midnight and 2 a. m. deadline for day and night games but the players could have cars, cards, wives, golf clubs and swim suits with them.

Brilliant pitching by Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer plus timely hitting by outfielders Bill Nicholson and Mel Clark gave the Phils a sweep of their doubleheader with Brooklyn, 5-3 and 2-1, and three wins in the four-game series.

The double defeat cut the Dodgers' first place margin to three games over the Giants who lost a grand opportunity to pick up more ground by dropping a 2-1 decision to the Boston Braves.

Cards Are Hot

Cleveland's Indians picked up a full game on the front-running New York Yankees, taking their second straight from the Browns, 3-2, while the Boston Red Sox were beating the champions, 5-4. Chicago's White Sox nipped Detroit, 3-2 and Philadelphia's Athletics dropped Washington into fifth place with a 4-1 triumph over the Senators.

Chicago's Cubs solidified their hold on third place in the National, pasting a pair of defeats upon Pittsburgh, 8-3 and 3-0.

Harry Brecheen pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds for their 12th victory in the last 16 games. Enos Slaughter continued his batting rampage, driving in all St. Louis runs in the eighth with a bases-loaded double.

A home run by pinch hitter Bill Nicholson following a walk to Connie Ryan in the eighth gave the Phils the nightcap win after Roberts had registered his 11th triumph with a six-hitter in the opener.

Benton Stops Yankees

A home run beat the Giants. The blow was delivered by rookie Jack Dittmer following a two-out single by Johnny Logan in the eighth. It was the kid infielder's first major league four-bagger and gave Warren Spahn his seventh triumph.

Perfect relief pitching by 41-year-old Alton Benton helped the Red Sox grab the rubber of the three-game set with the Yankees in New York. He stemmed a threat in the seventh and retired seven Yankees in a row to safeguard Sid Hudson's 5-4 lead.

Shantz Wins 14th

A pinch single by Barney McCosky drove in Dale Mitchell with the run that gave the Indians a 10-inning triumph over the Browns. McCosky hit for Joe Tipton with one out and the bases loaded.

Minnie Minoso slammed a sixth inning home run to give the White Sox their 3-2 win over the Tigers.

Bobby Shantz chalked up his 14th victory against two defeats, limiting the Senators to four hits. A sixth inning home run to outfielder Jackie Jensen deprived the little Philadelphia lefthander from hurling a shutout.

Fraternal Loop Will Open Monday Night

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp

DRY FLY PICK-UP TIP

UMPIRE

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League
Written for NEA Service

Question: What is the ruling in the event of a temporary failure of lights while a ball is in flight during a night game?

Answer: The umpire shall call time immediately and when the lights are turned on again and play is resumed, the batter and all runners will return to the last base touched. Should the batter be made to return to the plate, he shall assume the count of balls and strikes that prevailed at the time the lights went out.

Q. Who is the sole judge as to whether or not a game shall start?

A. The home club. But once the batting order is handed to the umpire, the home club ceases to have an authority as to the continuation of play.

Q. How do you determine a batter's slugging average?

A. To determine a slugging percentage, divide the total times at bat into the total number of bases.

KELL HURT IN RAILING CRASH

George Kell, Boston Red Sox third baseman, crashes against box railing in futile attempt to catch pop fly from bat of Yankees' Gil McDougald in third inning of game at Yankee Stadium in New York City. Kell received a groin injury and left the game. Red Sox scored five runs in sixth frame to top Yankees, 5-4.

What is the toughest golf hole in the area?

If you will accept statistics charted during the recent county amateur championships, the answer is that No. 3 monster at Wiltwyck.

For some time now there has been divergence of opinion with respect to the relative toughness of No. 3 at Wiltwyck and its counterpart at Twaalfskill. The Wiltwyck hole wins the decision with ease.

Only 13 per cent of the tee shots struck off the No. 3 tee at Wiltwyck eventually found their way into the cup in regulation "4." This was six per cent lower than the figure at Twaalfskill's No. 3 where there were 16 pars compared to 10 at Wiltwyck. The Twaalfskill No. 5, generally considered a stiff test, was conquered by 27 per cent of the shotmakers for a total of 23 par-5s.

Some unusual sidelights crop up during a tournament like the Herdegen Memorial. Young Jimmy Mellin of Woodstock, who had more than his share of trouble, joined Bill Van Aken to become the only contestants to score two pars on Wiltwyck's No. 3 Warren Nesbitt, the long-hitting Ellenville youth, pitched into the cup for the only birdie-3.

Allen Waterous, the big Woodstock swinger who has the knack of doing spectacular things on the fairways, and Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., were the only players to solve Twaalfskill's No. 3 twice around. The No. 5 hole at Twaalfskill was solved 23 times, with Harvey Bostic taking it apart with a par and birdie. Dick Davenport, Hank Boice, Lou Bruhn, Allen Waterous and Leon Randall also hit the jackpot twice.

These figures should be fairly conclusive, since the holes withstood the assaults of the county's best players. Reasonably, the percentage would run the same among the duffers. The next time the argument comes up, you can safely say that Wiltwyck's No. 3 is the real McCoy.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

"Dubby" Raichle's brilliant victory was not without its humorous sidelights. When Raichle approached the 18th green at Wiltwyck, safely "in" with a four-stroke lead, Al Katz accosted "Dubby" near the green and admonished: "Be careful on this putt, now Dubby." A few minutes later Raichle was sitting on the clubhouse porch with a group of people listening to the playback of a tape recording cut by Dr. Holcomb describing the tournament highlights and Raichle's progress on the last hole. The doctor did an excellent job, incidentally. The stillnes around the playback was suddenly shattered by a voice. "Nice going, Dubby, you're a real champion!" "Wait a minute," replied Raichle, "the match isn't over yet. I want to be sure," amid a gale of laughter.

It was not much later in the Twaalfskill tap room that Ernie Schirmer was chiding the tournament manager about getting shortchanged for his $3 entry fee. "Only three buffet luncheons, 72 holes of golf and a prize," wailed Schirmer in a mocking tone. "You should squawk, Ernie," said George Hughes. "You probably ate eight or nine dollars worth of food. . . ." Folks who know of the amazing gastronomical feats of the Saugerties barrister will not be inclined to underrate Hughes' quip.

If Alvie Boice gets by the first round of the state amateur tournament, he may surprise a lot of people. Big Hank Kowal, the Poughkeepsie hotel man, has captured the annual Hudson River Golf Association title. He beat Bill Bogle in the finals. It would be a great boon to the game of golf if the nation's five million golfers, country club and daily fee course players alike would: 1. Be ready to play in turn. 2. Give up unnecessary practice swings (it will do your score more harm than good). 3. Co-operate with a caddy serving two players. 4. Allow faster players to "play through." 5. Eliminate practice putts after holing out. 6. Do scorekeeping at the next tee. 7. Give up "mulligans" on the first tee. All divots should be replaced and foot prints smoothed out in the traps. Caddie carts should not be rolled across greens; neither should clubs be dumped on the carpets.

JOLLY CHOLLY — Popular Charlie Grimm, who replaced Tommy Holmes at the Boston helm, is a one-man circus coaching at third base. Braves' base runners have little trouble hearing the former Milwaukee generalissimo with the fog-horn voice. (NEA)

Bob Mathias Adds To His Laurels

Tulare, Calif., July 3 (AP)—The Bob Mathias story, a small town wonder inscribed in the records of the world, took on another amazing and magnificent chapter today.

The next pages will be added this month in the Olympic games at Finland, when handsome, 21-year-old Bob, the world's greatest track and field athlete, collides again with the best of other lands.

Mathias accomplished these feats last night:

He broke the world record of 7444 points he set in 1950 with a smashing 7825 points.

He won the United States championship for the fourth time, something no one else ever did.

He won his berth on the U. S. Olympic Decathlon team, and left this little town of 12,000 this morning in company with his teammates, New York-Helsinki bound.

One is Milt Campbell, an astonishing young athlete himself—18 years old, a high school junior in Plainfield, N. J., and owner of a score better in decathlon annals by only six men, 7055.

The other is Floyd Simmons, 29 years old, third to Mathias in the 1940 Olympic at London and winner in a fitful twist of fate last night from his teammate from Los Angeles, Bill Albans, with 6804.

Albans headed into the final lap a sure thing for the third spot on the team. But his right wrist, damaged in the shot put the night before, gave way in the pole vault.

Came the javelin throw, and two momentous events.

Mathias let loose a throw of 193 feet 10⅜ inches that brought the points that broke the world record after only nine events—7531, to be exact.

Duke Beaten Twice

Goshen, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—What happened to the Duke of Lullwater? That was the big question today among the harness horse folk after the Duke of Decatur, Ga., was beaten twice by Hit Song in the Historic-Dickerson Cup, one of the major previews of the $90,000 Hambletonian. "Well, you know horses, just like people, they have their off days," said Johnny Simpson, the Duke's trainer-driver.

12-Year-Old Hurler Whiffs 12 Batters

Carl Van Wert, 12-year-old flinger of the Giants, who was kayoed in the first inning in last Saturday's Esopus Little League opener against the Yankees, came back strong Wednesday night and turned in a commendable job as the Giants outslugged the Indians by 14 to 9.

As a result of last night's fray all clubs have won a game in the young LL season.

Young Van Wert pitched four innings last night and proceeded to roll up a strikeout total of 12. His control was perfect as he didn't walk a man.

The Indians reached Van Wert for a pair of runs in the fourth, however, to soil his shutout effort. A couple of hits and fielding errors robbed Van Wert of the whitewashing effort.

The Giants wasted little time meanwhile in piling up a huge lead for Van Wert as they pushed over 10 runs in the first inning, added two in the second and single markers in the fourth and fifth.

Trailing by 14-2 going into the last frame, the plucky Indians wouldn't roll over without a struggle and managed to close the gap to 14-9 with a seven-run uprising.

Josh Israel of the losers collected three hits in four trips while Bill McCabe of the Giants stroked a pair of hits in two trips, including a double. Van Wert, besides hurling four nifty frames, picked up two hits, one a triple.

Two games are carded for the weekend. The Indians and Yankees meet Friday morning at 10 o'clock and on Saturday the Dodgers and Giants will play.

Flam, Last U. S. Hope, Is Ousted

Wimbledon, England, July 3 (AP)—The United States today was left holding nothing but the bag as far as the three big international tennis championships were concerned.

Australian ace Frank Sedgman is the United States champion—at least until September; his doubles partner, Ken McGregor, an in-and-outer, holds the Australian title and it's going to be either Sedgman or Jaroslav Drobny the champion of Wimbledon.

They'll fight it out on the famed Center Court tomorrow. Drobny, a Czech refugee, who now is a citizen of Egypt, put an end to any American hopes yesterday when he eliminated the last of the Yank contingent, tow-headed Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a semi-final match 6-2, 6-4, 0-6, 8-10, 6-4.

Sedgman, probably the finest amateur player in the world, already had gained his final bracket, beating countryman Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, and he'll no doubt rule the favorite when he crosses rackets with Drobny, a southpaw swinger.

UMPIRE

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League
Written for NEA Service

Question: What is the ruling in the event of a temporary failure of lights while a ball is in flight during a night game?

Answer: The umpire shall call time immediately and when the lights are turned on again and play is resumed, the batter and all runners will return to the last base touched. Should the batter be made to return to the plate, he shall assume the count of balls and strikes that prevailed at the time the lights went out.

Q. Who is the sole judge as to whether or not a game shall start?

A. The home club. But once the batting order is handed to the umpire, the home club ceases to have an authority as to the continuation of play.

Q. How do you determine a batter's slugging average?

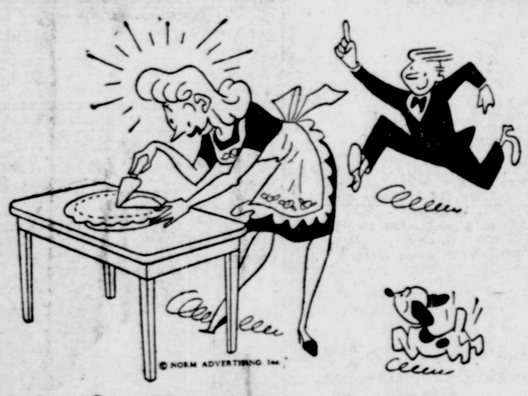

A. To determine a slugging percentage, divide the total times at bat into the total number of bases.

The other is Floyd Simmons, 29 years old, third to Mathias in the 1940 Olympic at London and winner in a fitful twist of fate last night from his teammate from Los Angeles, Bill Albans, with 6804.

Albans headed into the final lap a sure thing for the third spot on the team. But his right wrist, damaged in the shot put the night before, gave way in the pole vault.

Came the javelin throw, and two momentous events.

Mathias let loose a throw of 193 feet 10⅜ inches that brought the points that broke the world record after only nine events—7531, to be exact.

Duke Beaten Twice

Goshen, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—What happened to the Duke of Lullwater? That was the big question today among the harness horse folk after the Duke of Decatur, Ga., was beaten twice by Hit Song in the Historic-Dickerson Cup, one of the major previews of the $90,000 Hambletonian. "Well, you know horses, just like people, they have their off days," said Johnny Simpson, the Duke's trainer-driver.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Tulare, Calif.—Bob Mathias won National Decathlon Championship for 4th year with world record of 7825 points.

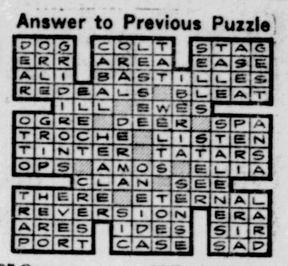

Harris, Pa.—Stella Walsh was ruled ineligible for U. S. Olympic women's track team because she competed for Poland twice previously.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Flam, Last U. S. Hope, Is Ousted

Wimbledon, England, July 3 (AP)—The United States today was left holding nothing but the bag as far as the three big international tennis championships were concerned.

Australian ace Frank Sedgman is the United States champion—at least until September; his doubles partner, Ken McGregor, an in-and-outer, holds the Australian title and it's going to be either Sedgman or Jaroslav Drobny the champion of Wimbledon.

They'll fight it out on the famed Center Court tomorrow. Drobny, a Czech refugee, who now is a citizen of Egypt, put an end to any American hopes yesterday when he eliminated the last of the Yank contingent, tow-headed Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a semi-final match 6-2, 6-4, 0-6, 8-10, 6-4.

Sedgman, probably the finest amateur player in the world, already had gained his final bracket, beating countryman Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, and he'll no doubt rule the favorite when he crosses rackets with Drobny, a southpaw swinger.

Cashin Rules That Avery Must Pay to Support His Wife

County Judge John M. Cashin today affirmed a directive that Marvin Avery, 58, of Port Ewen guarantee payment of $75 a month for support of his wife, Mae Avery, whom he accused of shooting him in a marital rift.

Avery asked in his appeal to the court that he be released from a judgment issued by Justice of the Peace F. E. Palen of the Town of Esopus directing him to furnish a $900 guarantee of payment.

In his appeal papers, Avery alleged that there had been disagreements between himself and his wife, that he had agreed to take her back into his home; that thereafter she had shot him with a .22 calibre revolver, seriously injuring him, and that from then on he was afraid to have her return.

Mrs. Avery was given a four-month suspended jail sentence on December 10, 1951, when she appeared in County Court in answer to an indictment charging her with assault.

Justice of the Peace Palen directed Avery to post the $900 guarantee on February 20, 1952 when he was adjudged a disorderly person for failing to support his wife under section 899, Subdivision 1, Code of Criminal Procedure.

Avery was directed to pay the welfare officer $75 a month for the support of Mrs. Avery for a year.

Judge Cashin's ruling affirms the judgment of the justice's court in all respects.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for the People and Montgomery, Effron and Goldberg of Poughkeepsie furnished counsel for Avery.

Cashin Rules That Avery Must Pay to Support His Wife

County Judge John M. Cashin today affirmed a directive that Marvin Avery, 58, of Port Ewen guarantee payment of $75 a month for support of his wife, Mae Avery, whom he accused of shooting him in a marital rift.

Avery asked in his appeal to the court that he be released from a judgment issued by Justice of the Peace F. E. Palen of the Town of Esopus directing him to furnish a $900 guarantee of payment.

In his appeal papers, Avery alleged that there had been disagreements between himself and his wife, that he had agreed to take her back into his home; that thereafter she had shot him with a .22 calibre revolver, seriously injuring him, and that from then on he was afraid to have her return.

Mrs. Avery was given a four-month suspended jail sentence on December 10, 1951, when she appeared in County Court in answer to an indictment charging her with assault.

Justice of the Peace Palen directed Avery to post the $900 guarantee on February 20, 1952 when he was adjudged a disorderly person for failing to support his wife under section 899, Subdivision 1, Code of Criminal Procedure.

Avery was directed to pay the welfare officer $75 a month for the support of Mrs. Avery for a year.

Judge Cashin's ruling affirms the judgment of the justice's court in all respects.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for the People and Montgomery, Effron and Goldberg of Poughkeepsie furnished counsel for Avery.

Hospital Prepares Special Diet

Miss Jean B. Harvey, right, dietitian at Kingston Hospital supervises a student nurse in the preparation of a special diet in the hospital kitchen. The kitchen served approximately 18,000 meals during the month of June.

Tour of Hospital Kitchen Is Interesting Experience

A hospital kitchen is not a kitchen in the ordinary sense.

Touring the dietetic department of Kingston Hospital today with Administrator William Sheldon and Miss Jean B. Harvey, dietitian at the hospital for 13 years, the complexity of hospital catering became clearly apparent.

Tall, gracious Miss Harvey pointed out that at the noon luncheon a total of 102 trays had been prepared, of which 35 were special diets, some requiring the most intricate care in preparation. Each of these special diets is prepared according to a prescription by the patient's doctor.

For instance, there are now five diabetic patients in the hospital. They can have only a calculated amount of carbohydrate protein fats. There is one fruit diet for an allergic patient, four ulcer diets and one tube diet which requires special foods in specific amounts and value, all of which must be smooth enough to descend the tube.

The food for one patient, whose jaw has been wired and can be moved but slightly, has to be prepared with a special electric blender or grinder which reduces the food to a semi-liquid state permitting the patient to take it in his mouth and swallow it himself.

Prepares Baby Formulas

The dietetic department also prepares formulas for babies, 84 of which were born at the hospital during the month of June. The preparation of formulas for prematures is particularly interesting and exacting, Miss Harvey, who was with the New York Post-Graduate Hospital and Albany Hospital before coming to Kingston, pointed out.

One premature, which weighed about three pounds when it was born two months ago, is now up to six pounds, she said. All formulas for the infants must be prepared by sterile technique separate from the rest of the food. The dietitian preparing it wears a sterile cap and gown just as the nurses in surgery. Miss Harvey said that samples of the formula were sent to the City Laboratory at intervals to ascertain bacteria content.

In addition to the 102 trays and baby formulas, the kitchen served between 125 and 135 nurses and staff members today.

Kingston Hospital bears the distinction of being the first hospital in the Hudson Valley to purchase and use the new Meal-Pack covered dishes by means of which food can be kept warm for approximately four hours. In this way the patient is assured fo getting hot food.

Each patient is presented with a printed menu for the three meals to be served on the following day and indicates on the menu what his choices are. This cannot be done with the special diets, of course.

Training Is Offered

During the past winter four young ladies from the New York State Agricultural and Technical Institute at Delhi, now affiliated with the University of the State of New York, took special training in hospital dietetics at Kingston Hospital under the supervision of Miss Harvey who, as a member of the American Dietetic Association, is qualified to teach dietetics to student nurses. Miss Harvey also teaches the approximately 50 student nurses at the hospital.

Despite the fine quality of service provided by the kitchen it is deplorably limited in space and equipment. Especially acute is the lack of storage space for foods, making it necessary for the hospital to buy more frequently than it might if it could stock more adequately.

Assisting Miss Harvey as assistant dietitians are Miss Edith McHugh from the Canton school and Miss Maryann Kathmann from Delhi.

Adding Flavor

The grated rind of an orange and a half cup of chopped raisins and nuts may be added to a two-egg cake recipe for delicious flavor variation.

Russians to Join Millions Who Go Off for Holiday

Woodland Beach, Md., July 3 (AP)—Russians stationed in Washington are all set to join millions of Americans in enjoying the Independence Day weekend with sun, salt water and beach air.

The Russians—under new State Department regulations—are supposed to limit themselves to within 25 miles of Washington or get special permission, but they have it all arranged.

Many of the Soviet diplomats, with their families, have rented cottages for the summer here and at nearby resorts on the South river and Chesapeake bay. This beach and neighboring areas are a little more than 25 miles from the capital, but the State Department is allowing the Russians to travel from the resorts without restrictions.

Habits Are Changed

The Soviets have had cottages here in past summers. This year, however, they apparently have changed their beach habits—to the great relief of Woodland Beach residents.

Last year some took over quite a large residence and others swarmed down in buses on weekends. They dominated the swimming area—owned jointly by property owners in this section.

"Why, most weekends we couldn't even find a place to sit," recalls S. Michaelis, a director of the Woodland Beach Property Owners' Association. "Sometimes you couldn't even see the sand."

Used Motor Boats

Overcrowding wasn't the only trouble.

"They'd rent motor boats and drive them into the swimming area where there was usually a lot of kids," Michaelis recalls. "When we'd point out the danger, they'd just shake their heads and hold out their palms. When we mentioned police, they moved the boats out."

This year all is quiet so far. Many Russians are here, but split up into small groups.

Probably an average situation is in the cottage on Old Town road. Two Russian couples and their children live quietly there—and haven't had guests so far.

Never Hears Them

A woman who lives across the road says:

"I never hear them. They're no bother at all."

Other neighbors say the women and children stay here all the time, while the men slip in quietly on weekends and, sometimes, Wednesday nights.

They are seen on the beach occasionally, but not in such numbers as aroused complaints last year.

There are 7,533 miles of railroads in New York state.

Hospital Prepares Special Diet

Miss Jean B. Harvey, right, dietitian at Kingston Hospital supervises a student nurse in the preparation of a special diet in the hospital kitchen. The kitchen served approximately 18,000 meals during the month of June.

Tour of Hospital Kitchen Is Interesting Experience

A hospital kitchen is not a kitchen in the ordinary sense.

Touring the dietetic department of Kingston Hospital today with Administrator William Sheldon and Miss Jean B. Harvey, dietitian at the hospital for 13 years, the complexity of hospital catering became clearly apparent.

Tall, gracious Miss Harvey pointed out that at the noon luncheon a total of 102 trays had been prepared, of which 35 were special diets, some requiring the most intricate care in preparation. Each of these special diets is prepared according to a prescription by the patient's doctor.

For instance, there are now five diabetic patients in the hospital. They can have only a calculated amount of carbohydrate protein fats. There is one fruit diet for an allergic patient, four ulcer diets and one tube diet which requires special foods in specific amounts and value, all of which must be smooth enough to descend the tube.

The food for one patient, whose jaw has been wired and can be moved but slightly, has to be prepared with a special electric blender or grinder which reduces the food to a semi-liquid state permitting the patient to take it in his mouth and swallow it himself.

Prepares Baby Formulas

The dietetic department also prepares formulas for babies, 84 of which were born at the hospital during the month of June. The preparation of formulas for prematures is particularly interesting and exacting, Miss Harvey, who was with the New York Post-Graduate Hospital and Albany Hospital before coming to Kingston, pointed out.

One premature, which weighed about three pounds when it was born two months ago, is now up to six pounds, she said. All formulas for the infants must be prepared by sterile technique separate from the rest of the food. The dietitian preparing it wears a sterile cap and gown just as the nurses in surgery. Miss Harvey said that samples of the formula were sent to the City Laboratory at intervals to ascertain bacteria content.

In addition to the 102 trays and baby formulas, the kitchen served between 125 and 135 nurses and staff members today.

Kingston Hospital bears the distinction of being the first hospital in the Hudson Valley to purchase and use the new Meal-Pack covered dishes by means of which food can be kept warm for approximately four hours. In this way the patient is assured fo getting hot food.

Each patient is presented with a printed menu for the three meals to be served on the following day and indicates on the menu what his choices are. This cannot be done with the special diets, of course.

Training Is Offered

During the past winter four young ladies from the New York State Agricultural and Technical Institute at Delhi, now affiliated with the University of the State of New York, took special training in hospital dietetics at Kingston Hospital under the supervision of Miss Harvey who, as a member of the American Dietetic Association, is qualified to teach dietetics to student nurses. Miss Harvey also teaches the approximately 50 student nurses at the hospital.

Despite the fine quality of service provided by the kitchen it is deplorably limited in space and equipment. Especially acute is the lack of storage space for foods, making it necessary for the hospital to buy more frequently than it might if it could stock more adequately.

Assisting Miss Harvey as assistant dietitians are Miss Edith McHugh from the Canton school and Miss Maryann Kathmann from Delhi.

Adding Flavor

The grated rind of an orange and a half cup of chopped raisins and nuts may be added to a two-egg cake recipe for delicious flavor variation.

Russians to Join Millions Who Go Off for Holiday

Woodland Beach, Md., July 3 (AP)—Russians stationed in Washington are all set to join millions of Americans in enjoying the Independence Day weekend with sun, salt water and beach air.

The Russians—under new State Department regulations—are supposed to limit themselves to within 25 miles of Washington or get special permission, but they have it all arranged.

Many of the Soviet diplomats, with their families, have rented cottages for the summer here and at nearby resorts on the South river and Chesapeake bay. This beach and neighboring areas are a little more than 25 miles from the capital, but the State Department is allowing the Russians to travel from the resorts without restrictions.

Habits Are Changed

The Soviets have had cottages here in past summers. This year, however, they apparently have changed their beach habits—to the great relief of Woodland Beach residents.

Last year some took over quite a large residence and others swarmed down in buses on weekends. They dominated the swimming area—owned jointly by property owners in this section.

"Why, most weekends we couldn't even find a place to sit," recalls S. Michaelis, a director of the Woodland Beach Property Owners' Association. "Sometimes you couldn't even see the sand."

Used Motor Boats

Overcrowding wasn't the only trouble.

"They'd rent motor boats and drive them into the swimming area where there was usually a lot of kids," Michaelis recalls. "When we'd point out the danger, they'd just shake their heads and hold out their palms. When we mentioned police, they moved the boats out."

This year all is quiet so far. Many Russians are here, but split up into small groups.

Probably an average situation is in the cottage on Old Town road. Two Russian couples and their children live quietly there—and haven't had guests so far.

Never Hears Them

A woman who lives across the road says:

"I never hear them. They're no bother at all."

Other neighbors say the women and children stay here all the time, while the men slip in quietly on weekends and, sometimes, Wednesday nights.

They are seen on the beach occasionally, but not in such numbers as aroused complaints last year.

There are 7,533 miles of railroads in New York state.
